CALLES MAKES SELF DICTATOR TO END REVOLT

"War to Finish" on Catholic Church.

Because of the censorship, which keeps much of the truth concerning conditions in Mexico, The Tribune ordered a special correspondent to make a careful investigation and report his findings after his return to the United States. Here is his first article.

BY GEORGE SELDES.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright, 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Laredo, Tex., May 8.—Immediately following the battle between the Catholic rebels and the federal troops at Oaxaca, in the state of Jalisco, in which about 100 civilian train passengers were among the victims, President Calles threw aside the pretenses of democratic government in Mexico and announced his dictatorship.

This is one of the most vital and sensational facts of the present situation in Mexico which the censorship, which followed immediately, has suppressed. The circumstances were: President Calles was furious when he learned that three priests participated in the battle. This fact, incidentally, is boasted by the rebels, who claim they are fighting a fair war, and have the right to take up arms and follow the leadership of the heads of the church in their struggle for religious liberty.

Now Calles Announced Dictatorship. Gen. Calles called in the editors of Universal and Expositor, the two big Mexican papers. He handed them an official statement concerning the battle.

"You will print this statement, without change, without editorial comment, and without any headlines whatever," Calles ordered them. "In case you want any headlines, you may set the first paragraph in large type. Otherwise no change, no comment."

The editors protested. "Gentlemen," replied Calles, "I accept no protest. From this day the presidency of Mexico ends; the dictatorship of Mexico begins."

Clamps on Censorship. Immediately after this open declaration of dictatorship President Calles ordered a mobilization and clamped on a censorship. This censorship, which enraged the American and other foreign press representatives, was according to the Calles spokesmen, put into effect because the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Mexico City had been sending instructions to the rebels in Jalisco and other states where the fighting is going on.

The archbishops and bishops then resided in Mexico City and forced to register with the police every day, were deported. Hundreds of priests were placed under surveillance. Many have since been deported. It is estimated that almost 1,000 of the 4,000 priests have already been deported or have fled from the country.

Machine Guns on Trains. Troops were sent immediately into every section of the rebel states. They were moved by motor truck, not railroad. Several airplanes were also sent, and have bombed the rebel concentrations. The wooden coaches have been taken from the trains traversing the revolt area. Steel coaches are now used.

Each train has two flat steel cars in front and one or two at the rear, filled with soldiers. The government has placed machine guns on them. Previously the soldiers had only rifles. The result is that the soldiers no longer mingle with the second class passengers. According to the church authorities it was due to the fact that the soldiers were mixed with the civilians that so many civilian men, women and children, "95 per cent of whom were good Catholics," were victims in the Oaxaca battle.

Calles' New Program. In carrying out his dictatorship, Gen. Calles ordered a session of his chief supporters, the labor council, which met and voted the following program for their chief:

1. That the priests be put on all trains crossing the war zone.
2. That the Knights of Columbus members holding government positions be discharged.
3. That the property of all Knights of Columbus be expropriated.
4. That the two big papers, Expositor and Universal, on account of some of all their stock being owned by the Catholic church or by Catholic sympathizers, be taken over by the government.
5. That so-called "Red and Black," or labor battalions, be recruited for a final battle between church and state.
6. That as the censorship of news to foreign countries is concerned the

NEW INCOME TAX CALLED LOAD ON TENANT CLASS

Land Owners Escape Under State Bill.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

More and more is being discovered about the proposed state income tax for Illinois as opposition to the measure grows, organizes, and prepares to make itself felt at Springfield, where the income tax bill is under consideration in the assembly.

The bill as it now stands virtually exempts farm owners. The measure was drawn in behalf of the farmers, is supported by them, and was introduced in the legislature and is being pushed there by farmer representatives and sympathizers.

Secondly, the contemplated tax is kind to the property owner, both urban and rural, and hard-bearing upon the renter, whether farm tenant or city wage earner. The owner of loop real estate and the landlord of many acres will feel the tax not at all. The clerk and mechanic in their flats and the renter, leasing his land at so much an acre or on shares, will be the ones to pay.

Discrimination Is Charged.

The proposed tax is, therefore, twice discriminatory, say its opponents. And they add this double objection to the fundamental objection, which is that no new form of assessment should be foisted on the taxpayer until the whole Illinois system of taxation has been shaken apart and reassembled in a form that will, somewhat at least, resemble what a sound economic system ought to be.

An income tax, by its very nature, rests lightly on agriculture and heavily upon the city dweller, the wage earner, the business man and the industrialist, it is pointed out.

An income tax is a tax on cash received. Urban and industrial life is on a cash basis. Rural life still lingers to an appreciable extent, in the era of barter and trade. Despite the growing tendency of the farmer to use the purveyed foods which urban dwellers must buy of necessity, he still produces an estimated half of his own food for his own industry. The city dweller pays an income tax on the money he earns for food. The farmer is, fifty per cent at least, exempt.

A Difference in Growth.

Business grows in dollars and cents and with turnover a tax must be paid on the profit, economists point out, while farm growth is in large part a natural growth. The farmer does not pay an income tax on new calves and lambs until he sells them. Nor can the increased fertility of his fields be measured in figures on the tax agent's books.

It is, moreover, exceedingly difficult to draw the line between the personal life and expenses of the farmer and the portion of his expenditures devoted to his business. He lives with his job. The city worker lives by it. And the farmer is the gainer when it comes to deducting allowable expenses of operation from his gross income.

In administering the federal income tax, tax officials assume in general that the average farmer pays no income tax and does not even file a return. The census of 1920 showed that Illinois' farm population constituted 16.3 per cent of the total. The returns of net income for 1924 show that Illinois outside of the cities and towns made only 5 per cent of the individual returns for the state. Cook county, containing about half the population of the state, made 471,625 in individual returns as against 189,969 for the remainder of the state. The farmer's failure to share equitably in the common prosperity is responsible in large measure for his failure to pay a federal income tax, but the nature of the tax is clearly also an important factor, according to economic thinkers.

How Land Owner Is Exempted.

A clause in the income tax bill, put there, it is said, with the specific purpose of exempting the owner farmer—stipulates that all taxes paid within the state are deductible, not from the gross income in computing the net, but from the income tax itself.

A man who owns a house and lot and pays on it an annual property tax of, say, $200, would, if his net income were $10,000, be liable to a tax under the contemplated state law of $150. But he is allowed to deduct his property tax and $150 minus $200 leaves less than nothing at all.

So with the wealthy farm landlord—and there were in 1920, 184 farms of 1,000 acres or more. He owns land, say, worth $500,000, on which he may pay a property tax of around $10,000.

SOME OF THE OBSTACLES

WOLL TAKES UP APPEAL TO CUT DOWN WAR DEBTS

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Mathew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor and president of the Photo-Engravers' union, made an appeal in the current issue of the American Photo Engraver for a reduction or complete cancellation of the foreign war debts due this country.

Mr. Woll said that both the industrialists and workers in this country realize that the debts should be reduced if not canceled, not by reason of legal considerations but because of industrial and economic requirements.

"With America the greatest creditor nation of all time," Mr. Woll said, "nationalistic hatreds are being created and directed against this country by groups who are trying to free themselves from unbearable financial burdens."

Conrad Bushman, 3825 North Kedzie avenue, yesterday took two companions, Charles Bothner, 4038 North Maplewood avenue, and George Brown, 2341 Fremont street, with him when he went to inspect a summer cottage near Antioch, Ill. At Channel Lake, west of Antioch, Bothner, who was riding in the rear seat of the automobile, saw a crow, reached for the rifle they had in the car, aimed and fired. The bullet hit Bushman, who was driving, instantly killing him. A coroner's jury declared it accidental.

Shake Story of Suspect in Girl's Murder

Late last night State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county started an investigation to determine whether Wilma Miller, 25 year old maid in the home of the wealthy Thorne Donnellys of Lake Forest, was killed to prevent her reporting the theft of valuable articles from her employers.

Miss Miller, dying, was found on the steps of the hall in the Donnellys home early Saturday evening. She had been struck several times on the head. Odo Puschel, a chauffeur for another wealthy resident of Lake Forest, was identified as the man who ran across the Donnellys lawn almost at the time the dying girl was found.

Suspect Denies Killing.

Puschel, despite the fact that the police forced him to retract much of his early story, last night continued to maintain his innocence of the murder of the girl. He claimed that he had an alibi that covered the period between 6 and 7 p. m., when she was beaten to death.

His report to the accusation is that he went from the Ferry home soon after 6 p. m. to the North Shore station in Lake Forest, where he boarded a train and rode to Fort Sheridan. There, discovering he had left his hat at home, he returned to get it, he said.

Train Conductor Quizzed.

The state's attorney interviewed the conductor on the train Puschel said he had taken. The trainman could not remember seeing him.

At first Puschel declared he had never known Miss Miller. He was shown pictures of her standing by the car he drove. Then he admitted he had seen her some five or six times.

The theory the state's attorney is investigating is that the killer might have lured the girl and crushed her in his head to prevent her reporting the theft. The Donnellys are on the way home from Europe, and no check on their property could be made. They are expected to arrive Wednesday. Mr. Smith ordered that a check be attempted today.

Hint Schweppe Plot Knowledge.

It was suggested that the girl might innocently have come by some knowledge of the details of the recent Schweppe kidnapping plot, which was frustrated by the placing of guards at the Schweppe home. It was at first thought that the girl's life might have been forfeit to this knowledge, but Mr. Smith soon discarded this theory as visionary.

'FIRES' ARTILLERY SHELL AT YEGGS; 3 RUN LIKE WAR

As three handits walked out of the flower shop of Harry Rowe at Sheridan road and Montrose avenue last night they heard a crash of glass and saw a large artillery shell come hurtling through the window of the store, at them. It surprised and frightened them so that all three dropped their revolvers and, being unable to get their automobiles started, they escaped down an alley on foot.

The shell, a 75 millimeter one, souvenir of the world war, was hurled at the bandits by Harry Rowe Jr., the 16 year old son of the florist, who was in the store with his father and mother when the bandits covered them with revolvers and took $110.

Rowe was knocked down by one of the robbers when she was slow in handing over the money. Many persons were passing the store during the robbery.

Mrs. Mae Marcard, 25 years old, 1349 North Dearborn street, was locked up when police learned that the car used by the bandits had been rented by her. She said it had been stolen from in front of her home, but was unable to explain why she had not reported the theft.

NEW AUSTRALIA CAPITOL OPENED BY DUKE OF YORK

CANBERRA, Australia, May 8.—(Monday)—(AP)—The climax of the duke of York's tour came today when he formally opened the temporary parliament building in the new federal capital.

The ceremonies were elaborate and picturesque. The duchess of York was present and a huge assemblage had gathered from all parts of Australia. Lord Stonehaven, governor general, and Prime Minister Stanley M. Bruce were in attendance, and 2,000,000 persons listened by radio to descriptions of the affair broadcast throughout the dominion.

Mrs. Melba sang the national anthem, troops paraded and airplanes droned overhead.

"Today marks the end of one epoch and the beginning of another," the duke said, "and our thoughts turn instinctively to what the future may have in store. One's own life would hardly be worth living without its dream of better things, and the life of a nation without such dreams for a better and larger future would be poor, indeed."

Goes Over Niagara Falls as Way to Commit Suicide

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 8.—(AP)—An unidentified man committed suicide today by going over the American falls. He waded out into the stream about 100 feet above the brink and was swept down. As he passed over the crest he was under water and barely visible to the hundreds of tourists at the point.

Body of Inventor Found.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 8.—(AP)—The body of Robert M. Pothersingham, 49, an engineer and inventor, who disappeared Friday, was found today in the Niagara river, between Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

He Shoots Up West Side Till Cops Spoil the Fun

Frank Allen, 18 years old, of 3711 West Adams street, who has served one term in Pontiac reformatory, took his mail order revolver yesterday and tried to shoot up a small section of the west side in frontier style. He was doing well until Police Sergeant Hendon and Callaghan caught up with him as he was shooting electric lamps at California avenue and Jackson boulevard. Allen fled, but the police arrested him after a chase in which they dropped several shots.

U. S. Calls In One Billion of Liberty Bonds

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Using one of the greatest publicity machines ever adopted by a government agency, the treasury tomorrow will call the $1,700,000,000 outstanding of the second Liberty loan. These bonds, representing the balance of the original issue of $3,987,885,000, will be paid on Nov. 15, the tenth anniversary of their issuance, and will not bear interest after that date.

Notice of the call will be advertised in every daily, weekly, and semi-weekly newspaper in the United States printed in English and placards will be placed in every postoffice and all banks and trust companies.

Coast to Coast Broadcast.

Radio will be used by the treasury department for the first time Tuesday when Assistant Secretary Dewey will broadcast announcement of the call through a hookup of stations as far west as Kansas City. A similar broadcast will be made from San Francisco. Secretary Mellon explained that in view of the intensive drive during the war to get the bonds into as many hands as possible, the treasury feels under obligation to insure every bondholder that his bond will cease to bear interest after the November date.

Offer Other Securities.

The call does not mean that the bonds will be paid at the present. Both the second Liberty loan 4 per cent and the second Liberties converted 4 1/2 per cent are called and it was regarded by Mr. Mellon as "quite remarkable" that prior to Nov. 15 the treasury will offer an opportunity to exchange the bonds for other government securities. If cash is desired the holder should present the bonds after Oct. 15.

The importance of spreading word of the call over the entire nation was emphasized at the treasury, where it was pointed out that there still are in the hands of their holders $30,000,000 in government securities on which the interest has ceased.

Delivered to Owners.

Of the original issue of the second Liberty loan, bonds aggregating $750,361,000 have been redeemed and $1,360,166,150 were refunded this year into 3 1/2 per cent treasury notes. A total of 34,739,175 bonds were delivered to owners.

The bonds would weigh 212 tons, a statistically minded treasury official calculated, and "if spread out would cover almost exactly one square mile of the earth's surface." There are now outstanding 3,634,416 bonds. Since they were issued interest accrued and payable to May 15 will be $1,327,060,335, representing issue and payment of over 1,750,000 interest checks and redemption of more than 130,000,000 interest coupons.

CANBERRA, Australia, May 8.—(Monday)—(AP)—The climax of the duke of York's tour came today when he formally opened the temporary parliament building in the new federal capital.

Wind Cuts Down Speed.

But as they progressed a stiff wind blew up. This wind must have slowed them down considerably, to less than 100 miles an hour, and possibly to as little as 85.

They have not been sighted by a ship carrying wireless since they left the coast of France this morning. This is not unexpected, as they planned to fly somewhat north of the steamer lanes, and an airplane is invisible at a distance of only a few miles. They might not be sighted until they have reached land and traveled some distance over it, as the part of Newfoundland they will first sight is not thickly inhabited.

motor, must fly blindly by his compass on the course set by Coll.

It is difficult for men to stay awake on such a flight. The roar of the motor, the sway of the plane lulls an aviator into a false security from which he is generally awakened by the shock of an air pocket or the dive of the plane toward the earth. He can only sit grimly fighting off fatigue, only indomitable will keeps the mind on the task.

The two men sit side by side in the white Levasseur plane, Coll a little to the rear. Conversation between them is almost impossible. They can only scribble notes or possibly get a word to the other by shouting close to the ear.

Plane Has No Wireless.

They cannot communicate with ships because they have no wireless. No signals can be obtained to check with the calculations Coll makes. They must depend entirely upon themselves and upon the motor.

How long they will stay aloft in the event they are forced down is not known. If they can empty their huge gasoline tank before hitting the water they may be able to ride the framework of their plane for many hours. But if there is much fuel left in the tank their buoyancy may be reduced and they may sink.

All day long in New York and far into the night anxious inquiries were made of newspaper offices and news agencies for word of the airplane and its pilots. Their adventure seemed to have stirred the imagination of the average man more than anything in many months.

PARIS GROWS WORRIED.

BY JAY ALLEN.

(Chicago Tribune Special Service.)

PARIS, May 3 (Monday).—Paris still was without news of Capt. Charles Nungesser at 3 o'clock this morning and the fact that the "White Bird" has not been sighted since it was reported north of Southampton is beginning to cause some anxiety. A pilot who accompanied the ship as far as Honfleur declared that Capt. Nungesser modified his course slightly at this point, steering northward to Southampton, which is on the original route.

The change was caused by the heavy fog in the channel, which explains why Capt. Nungesser was not seen by the numerous patrol boats and airplanes sent out by the naval authorities at Cherbourg.

ALDERMEN TO DEBATE METER REPEAL TODAY

The council finance committee will have a special session this afternoon to consider rescinding of the water meter ordinance. The session, according to announcement, is to be secret. Its purpose is to carry out a campaign pledge of Mayor William Hale Thompson.

In his inaugural message the mayor demanded the fulfillment of that promise in this language:

"The infamous water meter ordinance must be repealed, and the mothers and children of Chicago guaranteed unmolested use of the fresh water of Lake Michigan."

Installation of the meters was ordered by the federal government as a condition of a permit to the sanitary district permitting it to divert 3,500 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan for sewage disposal. It has been reported that an agent of the mayor has been in Washington attempting to get the government to modify its order.

OPENS NEW FIGHT TO EXPOSE KLAN PLOT IN INDIANA

Indianapolis Prosecutor Files Affidavits Today.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 3.—(Special.)—With the grand jury out of the way the prosecuting attorney, William H. Remy, will proceed tomorrow to prepare affidavits of information against city and state officials growing out of the investigation of the charges of D. C. Stephenson, ex-Indian leader in this state, that Indiana was really in control of a supergovernment.

The Remy affidavits were ordered filed by Judge James A. Collins of the County Criminal court after he had dismissed the grand jury and had found James E. Armitage guilty of an effort to bribe one of the jurors not to vote for the indictment of Mayor John L. Duval.

As the statute of limitations has run against some of the charges against Duval, the affidavits are expected to take the form of a conspiracy charge and to open up the entire proceedings under which Stephenson's efforts to get even with his former political friend have been suppressed and obstructed.

Would Silence Stephenson.

Stephenson is serving a life sentence for murder in the penitentiary at Michigan City. Recently his friends have circulated stories that he was to be killed in prison, in some apparent legal way, in order to silence his tongue and pen forever. There is pending now in court here a motion to have Stephenson brought to the witness stand in Indianapolis to testify in a civil suit concerning his lost property. If he comes out now, many politicians fear, he may tell the things he refused to tell last October when he had an opportunity to testify before the grand jury. That grand jury and the succeeding one were packed against Stephenson and in protection of city and state officials who had benefited from his power and had deserted him, his friends declare.

The whole Stephenson story has been given new life by the recent appearance of a history of his career in Indiana, published here and circulated at five dollars a copy. The book is entitled "The Mad Mullah," and tells how Stephenson, drunk with power, aspired to the White House, and had planned a national Klan movement in opposition to the Evans Klan, now in control.

Exposed of Klan Methods.

It was a combination of wine and women and the enmity of the imperial wizard, Hiram Evans, that brought Stephenson's downfall, according to this book. The book was supposed to contain an expose of Klan activities involving Gov. Jackson, Senators Watson and Robinson and even Gov. Small of Illinois, but there is nothing in it except generally uncredited rumors against these officials.

This coming book should bring a showdown in many of the Stephenson stories. They have been bandied about for six months and virtually every high official in the state has been hit. Everybody is now looking for Remy to bring something concrete out of his mass of information and investigation or keep still in the future.

Mayor Duval, it is reported today, will be the first one hit, along with his brother-in-law, William Ruser, city controller. Alvin Rucker, former corporation counsel, has been in conference with Remy and this has revived stories that Gov. Jackson will be brought into the affidavits.

Rucker some time ago informed the state commerce commission in an open hearing that the small interests had contributed $10,000 to the Jackson campaign fund. As the governor did not report such a contribution, as the law would require, evidence on this

DE PINEDO RESUMES FLIGHT IN NEW PLANE WITH HOP TO BOSTON

Boston, Mass., May 3.—(U.P.)—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian aviator, received an enthusiastic welcome on his arrival here today, after resuming his flight to Boston in his new monoplane, the Santa Maria II.

The plane, which Premier Mussolini sent from Italy to replace the machine destroyed by fire at Roosevelt Dam, Ariz., landed at the Squantum naval air base about two hours and fifteen minutes after taking off from Staten Island.

Commander de Pinedo said that the new plane had performed perfectly during the flight. Eight army and navy planes greeted him as he neared the Squantum base and escorted him to the harbor.

On stepping ashore Commander de Pinedo was welcomed by Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, who extended the facilities of the navy in caring for the plane during the aviator's stay here.

A special guard was posted and special precautions taken to guard against a similar mishap to that which caused the loss of De Pinedo's first plane at Roosevelt Dam.

The flyer made an informal call at the home of Gov. Fuller in the afternoon. He plans to take off tomorrow morning for Philadelphia.

Rucker some time ago informed the state commerce commission in an open hearing that the small interests had contributed $10,000 to the Jackson campaign fund. As the governor did not report such a contribution, as the law would require, evidence on this line might be made embarrassing for the governor.

Prohibition Promises.

Duval's campaign money and his prohibition promises are said to be certain to be included in the affidavits. Remy is reported to have refused to compromise his case against Duval by permitting the mayor to resign. Ruser would become mayor in that event.

The politicians are anxious to have the situation cleared up quickly, as the Republican party is badly split in the county and unity is needed to face the campaign of 1926. The various gubernatorial candidates can not make any permanent alliances under present conditions. William Armitage, brother of the man found guilty of contempt, is considered the key to the situation. He has long been a political power, and was the man behind the Shank majority administration. He has been grooming Shank to run again.

Duval had come with the Armitage camp just before this bribery scandal, and to the County political machine was reputed to be on the outs with the mayor. If Armitage now talks, as many fear he has done in his long conference with Remy, the way may be opened for a real expose.

FIRST SESSIONS OF GENEVA MEET PLEASE YANKS

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 3.—(U.P.)—American expectations with regard to the league of nations' economic conference have been upheld by accomplishments of the opening sessions. Henry M. Robinson, head of the American delegation, told correspondents today.

"The first phase of the conference has ended with expectations of the American delegation justified," Mr. Robinson said, "and the foundation laid for beginning, Monday, on a promising basis, the work of the commercial, industrial and agricultural commissions."

"The preliminary four day discussion demonstrated the inescapable interdependence of nations. The closer together they are as neighbors, the more compelling is the pressure of this interdependence."

"The outstanding impression given by the preliminary discussions is the remarkable degree to which the delegates of all countries, including manufacturers, merchants, producers, and consumers, are in substantial agreement over what must be accomplished."

CALLES MAKES SELF DICTATOR TO END REVOLT

Orders War to Finish on Catholic Church.

action taken by President Calles has been accompanied with the same stupidities which marked the Russian bolshevik and Italian Fascist censorship. To begin with, it has been impossible to keep the real news from leaving the country, and on the other hand, with every one doubting the news in the newspapers, the widest and most sensational rumors have found credence.

As dictator Gen. Calles also has set about strengthening his internal position. One of his strangest and most unconventional actions has been to call in members of the cabinet and other big leaders and lay down the law to them. They must either support him to the end or get out. Among the leaders called in were Minister of Agriculture Leon and Gen. Alvarez, chief of staff.

According to information which had reached the dictator many leaders and cabinet members had been spending all their time with their mistresses in cabarets or at private drinking parties, one of which took place regularly in (of all places) an American-Mexican dairy. Calles said, "You will give up your mistresses and stand by me in this war with the church, or you can leave the government and devote yourselves to your women."

Minister Leon Gets Out.

Gen. Alvarez promised to stand by Minister Leon quit the government. Gen. Calles began weeding out the pro-Catholic officers from the national army immediately following his declaration of dictatorship. Many minor officers have been shifted or let out. Generals in command of troops are being changed. Governors of states, whose loyalty is doubted, are being supplanted. In short, the whole regime is furiously at work strengthening all positions, material and moral, for war to the end.

"If Calles goes down," said one of his unofficial cabinet, who sees the president every morning, "it will be with flying colors. It is a fight to a finish. The church has ruled for 400 years. It has been said that no one can break its power. It is true that even Calles' closest friends have told him he has made his biggest mistake when he attempted to enforce the anti-church laws, which have been dormant for many years. But Calles is a fanatic in his war on the church and is risking his life and his party's fate on it."

JAIL 590 AFTER REDS OF BERLIN BATTLE JUNKERS

80,000 March to Bring Back Empire Glory.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, May 8.—Five hundred and ninety persons were arrested yesterday and today as a result of riots growing out of the demonstration in Berlin by the "Steel Helmsmen," an ultra-Nationalist military organization. Many of those arrested were released later.

Fifteen persons were seriously wounded in Berlin and thirty received lesser injuries in clashes which followed attacks by communists on members of the "Steel Helmsmen." There has been a report that one of the injured died of his wounds.

In Neukölln nearby, 150 "Steel Helmsmen" tried to march through the slums, singing the "Ehrhardt song." A mob attacked them. Mounted police charged the crowd. Fifteen persons were wounded in this clash.

Police announced they could guarantee safety to some 40,000 members of the visiting "Steel Helmsmen" who are remaining in Berlin over tomorrow. Forty thousand members of the organization left the city tonight.

Recall Days of Kaiser. Berlin folk today witnessed a spectacle which recalled to many the memories of the former Kaiser's military demonstrations.

Four army divisions of men who fought in the world war or were trained by war veterans camped before the former Kaiser's castle in the Lustgarten today, to stage a demonstration for the traditional ideals of greatness and for the regeneration of Germany into a state of its old time strength.

In their ranks as soldiers, in plain linen uniforms, were three Hohenzollern princes—Prince Eitel Friedrich, Prince Oscar, and Prince August Wilhelm, sons of the former Kaiser Wilhelm. They stood in perfect time with the other private past Herr Seldt, who was a major in Germany's old army and also a distiller of liquor. His existence would have been ignored by them in prewar days.

Like Mussolini's Fascists. Eighty thousand men of the "Steel Helmsmen" gathered at noon to show the German capital their power through-out the country and to provide a striking background for the organization's new declarations, which virtually turn it into a German Fascist organization.

1,000,000 strong—on the same lines as Premier Benito Mussolini's Black Shirts in Italy.

From the steps of the old museum opposite the former Kaiser's castle, speaking into a microphone, the leader of the Steel Helmsmen band appealed to laborers as the "compeers of capital." He promised a reconciliation between labor and capital similar to that arranged in Premier Mussolini's new labor code.

It was a motley crowd of 80,000 Steel Helmsmen and 10,000 spectators that listened to Herr Seldt and joined in the singing of national anthems and hymns in memory of the comrades who fell in war. On the cupola and balconies brass bands played and trumpets blared.

Hike 500 Miles for Ceremony. Grouped around 1,100 flags of all colors were the enthusiastic nationalists, some of whom had hiked 500 miles to Berlin to demonstrate their ideals. Standing arm to arm with them were pug nosed rowdies, who joined in the movement hoping for a good fight. Old time officers with bristling whiskers were trying to appear youthful and spry beside young boys, who attempted to look dignified, desperately stretching their necks and standing erect in an effort to appear taller. They all paraded in perfect discipline before the leaders of the "Stahlhelm." In addition to Herr Seldt were Gen. von Hutter, Gen. von Hoven, and Admiral Koester.

Persia Gives Ex-Envoys to U. S. a Cabinet Post. (Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

HINDU SPEAKER COLLAPSES AS HE TALKS ON UNITY

Chandra Sena Gonnaratne, young East Indian leader now attending the University of Chicago, where he is captain of the polo team, collapsed last night on the speakers' platform at the Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood boulevard, during an address on "The Awakening of India." The youth, who served with the British army during the war and was severely wounded and gassed, was taken to the Wesley Memorial hospital, where he was reported improving.

When Gonnaratne fainted the meeting, which was held in the interest of world unity, was thrown into confusion and finally disbanded.

Melancholy Diary Found of Missing Winnetka Nurse

Searching through the effects of Thora Johnson, 22 year old nurse who disappeared last Wednesday from the home of Whipple Jacobs, 430 Elder lane, Winnetka, the police yesterday found a diary. In it were inscribed numerous fragments of poetry, most of them tinged with melancholy. The police and coast guards have dragged the lake near the Jacobs home and the Boy Scouts of Winnetka have searched the Skokie marshes, but no trace of the girl has been found.

WISCONSIN TOWN HAS ITS SUNDAY GAME; CLERGYMAN SPEAKS

Union Grove, Wis., May 8.—(AP)—Despite the order of the village president, John Martin, against Sunday baseball, Union Grove, and the surrounding country turned out today to witness the game between Union Grove and Sturtevant.

Just before the game got under way, the Rev. K. A. Leinberger, Lutheran pastor, addressed the fans.

"We wish to be regarded as law-abiding citizens," Mr. Leinberger said. "In the President's town, in the governor's town, and in our own sheriff's town they play Sunday baseball." Then he exhibited pictures showing the stocks, pillories and ducking stools of Puritan days, saying that blue laws originated in the days when they were in use.

NEW YORK ASKS CHICAGO TO AID KIDNAPER HUNT

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Police said today that they have the names of five members of the Chicago gang that kidnapped Abraham Scharlin and James Taylor, wealthy real estate men who were released Friday afternoon after one of the gang had been shot dead and another captured the previous day.

Inspector Coughlin said he believed the gangsters were in New York, fearing to return to Chicago. Coughlin has asked Chief of Police Hughes of Chicago to send a detective to New York to aid in the hunt.

Scharlin and Taylor were held in a Brooklyn house for several days. The dead gangster was Joseph Marcus, alias Jack Thompson, and his companion was David Barman, who is still being held. A third suspect, Charles Kreamer, also has been arrested.

GIFTS FOR FLOOD RELIEF ROLL IN ALL DAY SUNDAY

Sunday quiet did not curtail the daily flow of contributions to the Association of Commerce-Red Cross fund for the relief of Mississippi flood sufferers. Workers for both organizations were at headquarters yesterday as usual, and tabulated checks and money orders received through the mail, with a total of $10,974.56 to reward them for their efforts.

Cash received at Red Cross headquarters, 616 South Michigan avenue, up to last night and inclusive of the $200,000 check mailed several days ago, amounts to $601,195.45. Together with the approximately $60,000 available in Mayor Thompson's flood relief fund, and with more thousands known to be in the offices of radio stations, actual cash contributed by Chicagoans to date is close to $700,000.

Among the most generous givers to the Association of Commerce-Red Cross fund reported yesterday were the Chicago Mail Order company and employees, $544; the Plumbing Contractors' Association of Chicago, $500; Hodge, Nicolson & Porter, $300; the Western Newspaper Union, $300; employees of the Western Newspaper Union, $275.50; Electric Household Utilities corporation, $200; Independent Pneumatic Tool company, $200; W. H. Miner, Inc., $250; W. H. Miner, Inc., employees, $250; Chicago employees of Portland Cement association, $153.50; employees of A. G. Becker & Co., $134.

Citizens are urged to send their contributions direct to the Red Cross, at 616 South Michigan avenue, or to any of the official agencies collecting funds for flood relief. Gifts sent to THE TRIBUNE will be acknowledged and forwarded to the Red Cross.

The Frederick H. Bartlett Realty company has given $2,000 to the relief fund through the purchase of tickets to the Freiburg Passion Play, which is being shown as a benefit at the Woods theater under auspices of the Red Cross. The tickets thus purchased, officers of the company announced, will be distributed among the poor children of Chicago, thus performing a doubly charitable function. The tickets may be used at any performance up to 7 p. m., and churches and social agencies in touch with poor children are urged to present written application for a supply at the theater.

URGES STRAIGHT, DEEP MISSISSIPPI TO STOP FLOODS

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
Straightening and deepening of the Mississippi river is one of three recommendations advanced for flood prevention. This suggestion comes from I. B. Tanner of Chicago, member of the Western Society of Engineers.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Water Works association and associate member of the American Railway Engineers. And his idea is given more weight because of his 30 years' experience in levee construction and railroad grading, which indicates an experience in, as well as knowledge of the cost of lifting and moving dirt.

"From Cairo to the mouth of the Mississippi there is about 1,100 miles with an average fall of less than 4 feet per mile, and a flow of less than four miles per hour," said Mr. Tanner yesterday. "If the channel were straightened the fall would be approximately one foot per mile, and the channel would be something less than half its present length. Water would move from Cairo to the gulf in 60 hours whereas it now takes about 15 days.

"The cost of such a channel would be around $500,000,000. Such a channel would take the water away rapidly, if that is the objective to be aimed at. Such a channel would be so efficient in taking the water seaward that there would be comparatively little of it left in the channel much of the year; and consequently waterway advocates would want the bare suggestion modified in some way.

"But the idea presented would reclaim permanently thousands and thousands of acres of the richest land in the richest valley in the world and would obviate the disasters from floods. I believe that any effective flood control plan must take into account the crooked line of the present channel."

When you stay downtown for dinner

Many whose work detains them in their offices of an evening know the horrors of a hastily 'snatched' dinner in some nearby cheap place.

That sort of thing is inefficiency. It involves many unpleasant possibilities, including injury to health.

Tonight, and every night when your interest in your work detains you at your desk, try the results of a leisurely stroll over to Henrici's for a sensible dinner.

The difference in time will be little more than appreciable, and the gain in better work more quickly done, when you return to your office, will more than compensate you.

By the way, there are some good shows in the Loop right now, and dinner at Henrici's before the theater or supper afterward will add to the evening's enjoyment.

SOUTH CENTRAL LOUISIANA FEELS WRATH OF FLOOD

Populous "Sugar Bowl" Section Menaced.

New Orleans, La., May 8.—(AP)—Devastation of south central Louisiana by the flood was regarded as imminent tonight by federal and state agents. A rescue fleet and supplies for this district were being concentrated against a probable break in the levees of the Bayou des Glaises, which is bearing the greater portion of the pressure from the Mississippi river flood and back waters of the great lake to the north.

Should these embankments give way, the flood would be released over seven parishes to the south, containing approximately 4,000,000 acres and 250,000 inhabitants. In this section is located the Louisiana "sugar bowl," where practically all of the domestic cane is grown.

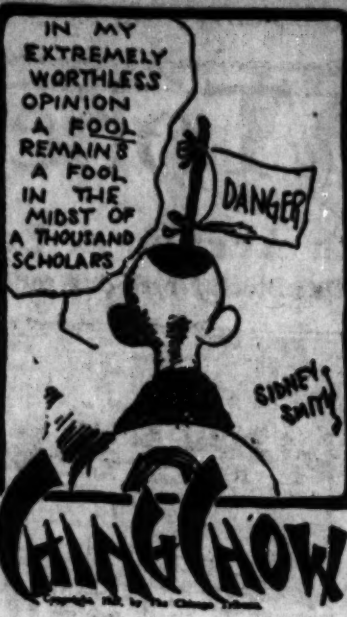

A steady battle on this flood front has been carried on for almost a month in the hope that the dikes might be held, but with the tide rising with unprecedented rapidity this hope practically had been abandoned.

Danger Front of Thirty Miles.

The fight still was being carried on, however, with the engineers concentrating all available forces at danger points along a stretch of more than 30 miles.

A break there would divert a large portion of the flood water from the Mississippi to the Atchafalaya basin and materially relieve the situation south on the main stream from the mouth of the old river north of Baton Rouge to New Orleans.

Enormous food supplies are in trans-comprehensive plan of future flood control. Both Secretary Hoover and Secretary Davis will visit the artificial levee made fifteen miles below this city, to relieve the flood pressure here. This levee now is more than 3,000 feet wide and high explosives still were being used today to remove the batture in front of the break so that the full force of the current might be directed into St. Bernard and Plaquemine parishes, a large portion of which already is flooded.

RED CROSS AIDING 337,854

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(Special.)—Late reports from field workers place the number of refugees being cared for wholly or in part by the Red Cross agencies in the flooded area at 337,854. Of these, 185,583 are concentrated in refugee camps in the seven flooded states. In Louisiana the number is 36,717, and growing hourly as the waters continue to rise in the northeastern section of the state.

Red Cross headquarters announced tonight that $9,005,000 had been contributed to the $10,000,000 relief fund asked by President Coolidge. Eastern states have given $5,800,000; the middle western states $2,292,000, and the Pacific coast and mountain states $787,000, in addition to $22,000 received in gifts from abroad and the $100,000 appropriated by the Red Cross itself.

More than $3,000,000 worth of army supplies have been turned over by quartermaster depots to relief agencies in the flooded districts, according to a report by the war department. These include tentage sufficient to shelter 161,000 people and stoves and ranges for 121,000, besides 126,000 blankets, 21,000 bed sacks, 26,000 cots, and 23,000 tubes of calcium hypochlorite to sterilize drinking water.

2 Are Killed, 7 Injured in $1,000,000 Printery Fire

Harrisburg, Pa., May 8.—(AP)—Two bodies were recovered today from the ruins of the state printery which was destroyed by fire last night with a loss estimated between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. Seven were injured. Those killed were Wilbur Sadler and Bernard E. Goodyear, volunteer firemen.

SEIZE 17 WOMEN, 23 MEN IN RAID ON FOREST VIEW INN

Seventeen women and 23 men, seized in a raid by county police early yesterday on the Forest View Inn, must appear before Justice William Ward at Morton Grove today. The road house is located in Forest View, known as the "private" town of Al Capone, gang leader.

For a week county police had attempted to raid the place, but were confronted on each visit by closed doors. Yesterday's raid was under the direction of Sergt. Richard Mackey, acting on special instructions of James L. Devereaux, new chief of county police. The prisoners were locked up at the Cicero police station.

The inn is regarded as the successor to the notorious "Stockade," burrow. It is said, by citizens angry over the failure of authorities to close the place.

What the Week of Taylor Sales Means

For the first time Coats and Frocks of the better, higher grade—apparel regularly selling from $85 up—is to be sold at a merchandising "scoop" price.

Popular price stores have long used the "sales week" idea. It remained for Taylor's to be the first of the exclusive, high type stores to apply the same method to better apparel.

We are going to beat all records for value. Those who attended this great annual event last year know what to expect. Everything has been tremendously underpriced.

It starts today! Be sure to be one of those to complete your wardrobe at savings during the entire week of Taylor Sales.

O'CONNOR PLANS LIFE TERMS FOR 3-PLY CROOKS

Jails 133 in Week-End
Drive on Crime.

Illinois' habitual criminal act, under which a person convicted three times in the courts may be sent to the penitentiary for life, is to be invoked to drive and keep desperate crooks out of Chicago, Chief of Detectives William E. O'Connor announced last night.

The pilot of the detective forces of the city made his statement after he had conferred, he said, with State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe and with the judges of the Criminal court, all of whom, he added, had promised him vigorous cooperation in his war on the crooks.

As the chief made his plan public he revealed that 133 men of suspicious character had been arrested in the week-end drive on crime. Of these 133, the chief said, 48 had been found to have police records.

Cleaning Up Crime Nests.
"We have been cleaning out the crime nests of the city over the week-end," Chief O'Connor said. "There are certain places where crime is bred and it is our purpose to raid such places so often and so hard that the crooks will find it better to leave the city and do their robbing somewhere else."

In one such "nest," run by Joseph Hynes, a notorious burglar and safe cracker, near 37th street and Indiana avenue, a number of known criminals were taken in Saturday night's raids. Among them were George Williams, Joseph Masterson, and James Corcoran, who have police records.

In each case, Chief O'Connor delivered to the known criminals arrested, his advice that they leave Chicago.

Sends $20 Contribution.
The chief revealed that he had received a letter containing a check for $20, from Dexter E. Kenyon, 319 Sheridan road, a sales agent with a business at 27 East Monroe street. Mr. Kenyon praised the chief for his stand and his trust in rough policy with crooks. "I am always filled with disgust when I read the final decision of 12 human jackasses in court," Mr. Kenyon stated. Chief O'Connor turned the check over to Mrs. Mary Golden, widow of a salesman, killed by the police by mistake.

A pistol was clutched in one of Bockwell's hands and he had apparently committed suicide. Miller told the police he left his friend to watch the house while he went for a walk.

BLAME BOOTLEG REVENGE AS CAFE IS HELD UP AGAIN

Highland and Blue Bird
Patrons Lose $11,000.

For the second time within a week the Highland cafe, 98th street and Western avenue, was raided early yesterday by bandits. In both robberies the patrons, numbering about 100 each time, were lined against the wall and searched, and the cash register was rifled. The robbers procuring altogether close to $10,000 in cash and jewels.

Neither of the bandit raids was reported to county police. The secrecy of the management led police to suspect that the robbers were in reality agents of a beer selling clique attempting to injure the patronage of the cafe.

Pursued Fleeing Car.
Word reached county police that two Chicago policemen and a deputy bailiff of the Municipal court were among the patrons in yesterday's raid. One of the policemen, according to the story, pursued the fleeing auto of the robber gang south in Western avenue, exchanging a number of shots with the bandits.

Shortly before the raid another gang of four bandits appeared at the Blue Bird tavern, 2277 South Chicago avenue, robbing the seventeen patrons and Joseph McFadden, the manager, of money and jewels totaling nearly $1,000.

Hint One Was Ros.

Among the victims of the latter place were Miss Betty Fitzgerald, 2220 East 79th street, who lost a $400 ring, a $200 wrist watch, and $10 in cash; Miss Elizabeth Murphy, 1512 East Marquette road, who lost a $125 ring and a $75 watch; L. H. Wilder, 4545 Dover street, $92; B. H. Leather of Brooklyn, N. Y., $40, and John Winslow, 5469 University avenue, $23 and a watch.

Miss Fitzgerald suffered a nervous shock from the robbery and was under the care of a physician at her home yesterday. She described one of the bandits as being small and swarthy, which leads authorities to suspect he may have been Bernard Ros, Mexican, who recently shot to death a Chicago policeman after making his escape from the Will county jail at Joliet.

ENDS LIFE WITH GAS IN HOME.
Alexander Zlab, 35 years old, 2024 North Winchester avenue, yesterday committed suicide by inhaling gas in his home.

JAPAN TO BACK BANKS; LOSS MAY BE $700,000,000

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

TOKIO, May 9.—(10 a. m.)—With only four hours of discussion the peers enacted the government's two bank relief bills, obligating taxpayers to assume the losses of the banks for the next ten years up to $700,000,000. The Bank of Japan was authorized to make advances on limited security and at the lowest interest any amount required to enable the Bank of Formosa to pay all foreign creditors and to the other banks, to pay depositors. It is estimated that as much as $7,000,000,000 may be required, on which there will be possible losses of 10 per cent.

Government financial circles admit the bank relief law is only a temporary measure and are discussing the necessity for another special session of the diet this summer to consider legislation for improving fundamentally the banking laws and also measures to accelerate the industrialization of the nation.

Early English Furniture in Oak and Chestnut

Some remarkably interesting new furniture has been lately produced in the styles of the Age of Oak, and we are showing a large collection.

A feature of this new furniture is the fidelity with which it reproduces the flavor of the antique, even to the marks of wear and the patina of aged wood.

Some of the pieces are in the styles favored by the nobility of the period and are quite magnificent, while others might well have come from some simple English cottage.

The sideboard illustrated above is from a dining room group in the Early English style, executed in chestnut. There is a refectory table, a server, and chairs with backs of carved wood. 9 pieces, $452.

Summer Furniture

The spring season has brought out some new ideas in furniture for the porch and sunroom. "Stick reed" and "stick willow" in bright colors following the modern school are quite striking.

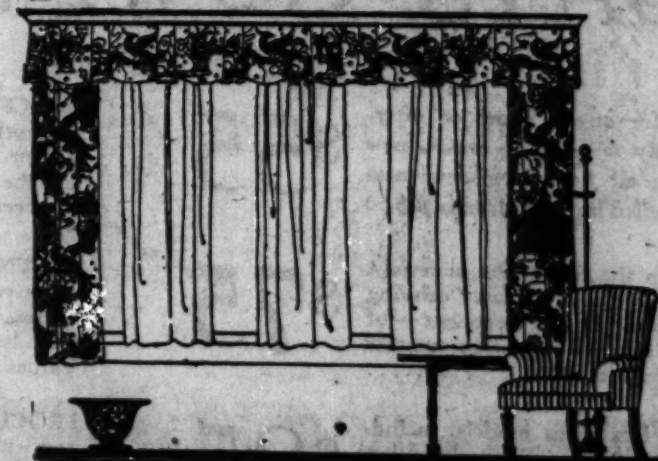

Our exhibit is large and complete, including many of the newest things.

The Settee illustrated above is in Pompeian green, trimmed in black and red. The cushions are covered in brightly colored novelty cretonne—$224. Arm Chair to match, $114.

A Few Pieces of Summer Furniture

Couch Hammock in striped twill, complete, $67.55
Metal garden set covered in burnt orange twill with an applique of black and lemon. The set consists of 8 ft. sunshade, a 42-in. table, and 4 chairs. $109.50.

Simply write us your requirements with approximate price, and our experts will make careful selections and send on approval. Pushman's assumes the responsibility of pleasing you in every respect.

Built on four decades of Greater Value Giving

There is no restriction on the use of words, but facts cannot be gainsaid. No business institution can grow and expand as Pushman's has without giving the public matchless value and service.

It is trite, of course, to say that this is an age of specialization and offer this as a reason for Pushman's phenomenal growth during four decades, but the real reason may be summed up in these words:

PUSHMAN'S GOLD STANDARD OF VALUE AND FIXED POLICY OF ONE PRICE TO ALL

—which means a definite dollar-for-dollar standard of value based on the intrinsic worth of each and every rug as a piece of merchandise—not as a work of art; selling only qualities that can be unconditionally guaranteed; enormous assortments; One Price to All—based on actual cost plus the least profit on which the business can be conducted; and painstaking, expert service to insure complete satisfaction to every customer.

RUTH AND JUDD MAY KNOW JURY VERDICT TODAY

Will She Escape Chair?
That's Public's Query.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—Ruth Snyder, wayward wife and Judd Gray, self-described victim of her lures, may know tomorrow night whether they can murder an unsuspecting and sleeping husband and get away with it.

Ruth will learn also whether the jury in the Queens County court considers her the arch criminal, as Gray says, or whether it follows in the footsteps of many juries and let the woman go scot-free.

But what the public is waiting for

with the keenest interest is the answer to the question:
Will Ruth and Judd go to the electric chair?

From the first days of the trial, the public and morbid women spectators have seemed intrigued by the question of whether equal punishment is meted out to man and woman. Both admit the crime with slight deviations; Judd says he did it all except one blow with a window weight. Ruth denies she wielded the weight or assisted actively in the murder.

When court opens tomorrow, the stage will be all set for the legal arguments.

Ruth's Lawyer Talks First.
The first summing up speech will be made by Dana Wallace, representing Mrs. Snyder.

The second summing up will be made by Attorney William K. Millard on behalf of Gray. The third will be District Attorney Richard S. New-comb's address for the prosecution. Judge Souder will ask each of the speakers to consume less than two hours in his address. Judge Souder expects to use about one hour in instructing the jury in the law governing the case, making possible a verdict before the night is over.

Gray Says He's Prepared.
Both defendants were reported to be in good spirits today and Gray who has reported himself to be greatly relieved by his two and a half days of confinement on the witness stand, talked placidly with his guards and said he was prepared for whatever happened. Mrs. Snyder was said to be cheerful and fairly confident that no first degree murder verdict would be rendered in her case. She received a Mother's Day card from her nine year old daughter Lorraine. Both defendants attended services in prison chapel. After the service each was visited separately by the Rev. J. Hill Johnson, the prison chaplain.

RESCUERS NEAR MINE TRAIL'S END; NO TRACE OF 41

Fairmont, W. Va., May 8.—(AP)—Rescue workers approached the end of the long trail today in their search for bodies in the Everettsville mine disaster.

Twenty-two bodies have been located within the last twenty-four hours, bringing the total known dead to 52. Search for the remaining forty-one bodies yet in the mine was continued without abatement.

A marked change in the air inside the mine was noticed shortly after the fire area was sealed off Saturday night. A small fire was discovered within about 1,200 feet of the seals. The fire which was quickly extinguished, covered an area of about six feet.

BAUMES LAW IS DRIVING GANGS TO BUSINESS, CLAIM

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—The drastic Baumes law is driving gangsters and gunmen from violent crimes into business crimes, according to Maxwell Mattuck, former assistant United States attorney, who as eastern counsel for the National Association of Credit Men suggested today the enactment of a federal Baumes law to meet the new situation.

"Commercial crime is following the modern trend toward organization," he said. "Gangs of professional thugs, evidently well supplied with funds and legal advice, have extended their criminal activities into the commercial field and have gone into business on a large scale. Their entrance into this field has been comparatively recent."

NEARING PEACE IN NICARAGUA.

Henry L. Stimson, the American mediator sent by President Coolidge to Nicaragua, has informed the state department of an agreement between the two native fighting parties which is expected to bring peace back to the country. The forces of Diaz and Sacasa are to disarm and the people are to have the chance to get their June crops in. There is to be a general amnesty and a return of all confiscated property. A constabulary will be organized under American officers and until this is regarded as adequate a force of marines will be responsible for order.

Diaz is to remain as president, but is to admit men from Sacasa's party into his cabinet, and a general election will be held in 1928 under American supervision. The state department did not mention what was reported independently from Managua, that the Sacasa party yielded to reason on the understanding that if it did not the Americans would take the field against them to disarm them.

That may be true if the pacification is obtained, and if the terms are accepted and carried out Nicaragua will get the good of it. If the United States had to intervene at all its intervention should have been effective in stopping the fighting, either by mediation or by force. To the liberal minded contention that the American procedure has been a disgraceful outrage the terms of the agreement may be offered. If they are disgraceful, then the futile killing of the Nicaraguan natives, conscripted by partisan leaders in a fight which did not concern them, was humanitarian and words have lost their meaning.

The real outrage, apparently, is that the United States considers itself responsible for the maintenance of an approximately civilized condition in Nicaragua, and even if questions of ordinary humanity are to be left out of consideration that policy is required for the general well being of the entire Central American and Caribbean regions. These little plague spots of disorder do not contain their consequences wholly within themselves. They have immeasurable possibilities of the gravest international character.

THE TREASURY AS CENSOR OF READING.

Some one in the United States treasury department at Washington has caught the contagion of the widely prevailing fever for protecting other people's morals. A dispatch from New York asserts there is to be a drive on immoral books and closer cooperation with the postoffice department, which already has an amazing history in this field of well doing. In this new endeavor a shipment of the unexpurgated edition of the Arabian Nights has been held up pending a hearing at Washington and the New York officials of the department are said to be "up in the air" as to their duty respecting recognized classics.

We don't blame them. Being up in the air is the common experience in official censorship of books and plays. Objection to censorship is interpreted by those whose consciences urge them to the keeping of other people's consciences as evidence of a corrupt mind or heart. Nevertheless, objection must not infrequently be accepted as a duty by such as have regard for the freedom of moral judgment.

There is a very clear field in which censorship is justified to any sane and healthy mind, but once out of the obvious limits of deliberate pornography, censorship over the reading of adults becomes indeed a dubious affair. The protection of youth is largely a question of finding the most effective means, but when government undertakes that of grown men and women we have problems of principle, of civil right, and even of morals which, to say the least, an official in the treasury or the postoffice is not likely to be well equipped to solve. The treasury department was established to administer the national revenue and the postoffice that of postal communication. Doubtless in the casual case of congress they have acquired certain legal powers to censor the public reading, but it is certainly a grotesque perversion of the appropriate functions of these departments. If a publication is unlawful, the laws should provide for its suppression by the appropriate agent, the law department, and not by summary action by an administrative department which happens to have temporary physical control of the alleged unlawful matter, as the treasury's customs agents or a postal official.

Is this merely a theoretical objection not worthy of the lawmaker's consideration? It will seem capricious to admit reformers or indicative of a deplorable indifference to the morality, yet it is not unimportant that appropriate assignment of duties should be the rule in our mechanics of government.

Otherwise we have confusion and often an actual denial of justice and equality before the law. Censorship by customs or postal officials may be appealed to the courts, but the possession of that right does not justify the original imposition of restraints by inappropriate and therefore often incompetent government agencies.

We realize how little weight these considerations in the science of government have upon the moralistic urge to make righteousness, as conceived by the crusader, prevail by a force of statute. Yet they are considerations that have much to do with the public welfare. An administration of government which is blunderingly intrusive, inconsistent and confusing is the unescapable result of illogical and haphazard distribution of powers, and the law-maker or citizen who thinks this is not a serious matter as compared to the treatment of some special evil, real or assumed, is not wise.

We do not touch here the basic issues involved in censorship by government, though these issues are of vital importance. We wish only to reiterate here that the imposition upon the national government of police responsibilities is a mistake, but that, if it is to assume them, they should be assigned to an appropriate agency.

ACTION FOR THE OUTER LINK.

President Jackson of the Lincoln park board has done well to call a conference on the outer link. As he reminds the officials, the money for the completion of the connection was voted six months ago and, while there seems to have been consideration of the problem, there is need to bring the various authorities together for definite action. The federal and state governments, the north and south park boards, the city, the Chicago plan commission, the Illinois Central, are all interested and the task of getting them together is not perhaps a very easy one. We know from experience how slow important public agreements move even when there is crying need for them, and we thank President Jackson for getting started toward a showdown all around. It is a pity so much time has been lost, as it would not have been lost if a private enterprise with such a stake as we all have in the link had been in charge. But we beg the respective authorities to act now with all practicable speed. The new link is so badly needed that they will earn the gratitude of all the community if they give us results as soon as possible.

NOT SO GOOD FOR THE SCHOOLS.

The Chicago aldermen are a pretty fair lot of men, as aldermen go. If a further qualification is insisted upon, but sometimes some of them do not mind cheap-acting themselves a little for such good as they may think accrues to them thereby. Some in the school committee did in the discussion over Supt. McAndrew, clowning themselves with their criticism, not the superintendent. He probably is not thin skinned and may not mind the aldermanic turn of wit and derision, but we doubt that it is good for better pedagogy in the city to make it apparent that any man who takes an important position in the Chicago schools may expect at any time to get a volley of mud balls from the supervisors of the schools for which he is hired.

FRANCE FORTIFIES.

Premier Poincare has made known a plan of fortifications which is said to have brightened France considerably in spite of a random estimate that it will involve billions of francs. A good deal of comment naturally drifts toward the nonpayment of French debts and the pretensions of the league of nations in the scheme of preserving the peace. The French would readily answer such remarks if they came from Americans. The United States did not join the league of nations and it did not join with Great Britain in a guaranty of help against aggression. Furthermore, although our allies will not say it, it is true that the United States could not or did not make the treaty of Versailles in reality a treaty of peace. It was a treaty of accommodation of the then weakness of the vanquished to the desires of the victors.

A superstructure of the mechanics of an altruistic peace could not be built in Geneva on a foundation of something solidly antagonistic laid down in Versailles. The realities and the aspirations were too far apart in time, place, and motives. The United States did a great deal to plan what was intended for Geneva, and then wiser men in the United States senate rejected the plan. It could not do anything to prevent the arrangements made at Versailles. We had a part in the words of altruism and none effective in the acts of the treaty makers.

The treaty of Versailles regarded the new German republic in the same light that the old German monarchy would have regarded. The conditions given the people were about the same as the conditions given the military monarchy would have been. The military pressure on Germany is not yet relaxed. The occupation of territory was extended into the Ruhr and the control tightened. All the disabilities under which the Germans have been made to live are natural enough to war. They might even be regarded as light in a scheme of war. The defeated pay the bill. The Germans themselves, if their military government had won the war and strengthened itself, might have been harder task masters. But when peace is made wholly on doctrines of military strategy and economic predominance it can be regarded only as an interval in the processes of war.

Therefore, what can France do but expect for the future what it has accepted from the past? Europe has not reconstructed its mind. Possibly it cannot. Dispositions can be friendlier and hope can be livelier, but it can reconstruct fortresses and behind them feel safer.

Editorial of the Day

DR. McANDREW.
[New York Herald Tribune.]

When William McAndrew left the public school system of this city Chicago gained a distinguished educational leader at this city's expense. When better teachers are hired, New York will find them—if it is lucky. Now the cheerful insanity of Chicago politics brings that city to the brink of losing Dr. McAndrew's services. Part of Mayor Thompson's desperate campaign to save Chicago from annexation by the British empire consisted in accusing Dr. McAndrew as the spy of King George. Hence the drive to oust him.

There is no need to defend Dr. McAndrew from such Miltie charges. Probably his Americanism, constant and pervasive, is the most outstanding of his characteristics. We would only rise to remark that if Chicago does lose this wise teacher and staunch American, New York City would be fortunate, indeed, to recapture him, and the debt of New Yorkers to Mayor Thompson would be considerable.

OLD TIME DRUG STORES GONE, BUT NO LOSS.

An evolution of the drug store. He is particularly unhappy because the soda fountain and the lunch counter now take up the best space, and the man who wants to get a little medicine must find his way through lunch tables to the rear somewhere in order to make his purchase.

I am not so sure that the change is altogether for the worse. There was an odor of medicine about the old style drug store that was easily transformed into an odor of reverence. The formal rows of stately bottles were somewhat cathedral-like in their impressiveness. To lose this was something of a loss.

But let us see what the soda fountain and the lunch counter really displaced. In the first place, let's consider the contents of those rows of stately bottles. They looked impressive. They had glass stoppers and raised porcelain labels, each bearing a title written in Latin and printed in gold letters. The preparations in those bottles are known in the trade as Galenicals. The medicines themselves actually went out of use twenty to fifty years ago. The medicine in these bottles stayed there untouched, slowly changing with time, for many years, taking up space—nothing but tomfores.

Of course, an up to date druggist, paying rent for space, must decide to give this space to something the people really cared for. And there was a world of profit that they did not care for the old fashioned Galenicals.

Next arose the question as to what should be done about the patents. There is still a call for some of these, but instead of forty running feet ten will now furnish all the space required.

In recent years I have visited a number of drug stores in Central American and Caribbean countries. One cannot appreciate the decrease in the faith of the American people in the patents until he looks over the shelves of these stores. They are packed with the same old drugs given to patients in these drug stores. As they are, so our drug stores once were. On their shelves they still have the hoary old fellows that began to disappear here twenty or more years ago. Here, again, the up to the minute druggist must find some use for much of the shelf room once occupied by the patents. What if in the back the space is given over to cooking operations? In the older days these were percolators and percolators, pill mills, pill cutters, and sundry other operations now better done elsewhere and otherwise.

The underlying fact is that the people do not drop the medicine they formerly used. They still take far too much medicine. They take pills, powders, and potions when all they need to do is to let nature handle the job. But at the same time, the druggist is a very good customer—but not so good as it was. The lunch counter and soda fountain custom or habit is taking the space formerly used to supply the drug taking custom or habit, and that is more of a gain than a loss to health.

DANCING PARTIES BEFORE EYES.
Mrs. O. L. writes: Sometimes in front of my eyes there begin to dance little bluish, triangular patterns. This lasts ten or fifteen minutes, and then I have a terrible headache. For some months lately it has occurred every week. I have been troubled by this off and on for ten or fifteen years. One time it went away for a year. I am now 57.

I have had my eyes examined by a good oculist, but he said my eyesight was perfect. He could tell me nothing. I presume there was nothing to tell. In rare instances floating particles in the line of vision have a meaning. In 900 cases out of 1,000 they do not.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with name and address of writer.

KEEP ON AT YOUR ALDERMAN.
Chicago, April 27.—Legal Friend of the People.—At the southeast corner of Exchange Avenue and 75th street, recently the site of an Illinois Central suburban station, excavating work was started some time ago, presumably for the erection of a building. For some reason work stopped several weeks ago. The excavation, which is about eight feet deep, has caused the sidewalk to cave in. A filthy barrier has been placed at the curb, compelling pedestrians, many of whom are school children, to use the street which has been recently paved and is used freely by autoists as a speedway; there apparently is no traffic control at this point. The situation is aggravated by autoists parking along the curb, particularly evenings, forcing pedestrians to the middle of the street, which is a narrow one. The writer has seen several accidents to pedestrians narrowly averted.

The attention of the alderman for the Seventh ward was called to this condition and he promptly and courteously replied to the effect that the ward superintendent had been notified to take the necessary action. Although three weeks have elapsed, nothing has been done.

Is there any law or city ordinance requiring the owner of this proposed building or the contractor in charge of the work, to provide safe passageway in a case of this kind, and, if so, what steps will it be necessary to take to see that it is enforced? J. C. H. The driver said he would be back the next day, but evidently did not do so, as the refuse is still there. Should this be referred to the health department?

YOU ARE GETTING SERVICE.
Chicago, April 26.—[Friend of the People].—The alley between Austin boulevard and Mason Avenue on Augusta street has not been cleaned since the middle of last fall, and it is almost impossible because of refuse. A few days ago a rubbish wagon came through the alley but did not take any refuse away. The driver said he would be back the next day, but evidently did not do so, as the refuse is still there. Should this be referred to the health department?

Our records show that alley referred to has been cleaned a number of times since early spring—that is, broomed. The last cleaning was given April 14. Regular service is also given on refuse collection.

THOMAS H. BYRNE,
Superintendent of Streets.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HOWDY! Well, we're back from there. Ireland? O dear, no. We're going to Ireland in 1928. This year we went to Cuba. Cuba is a lovely country. Daiquiri is in Cuba and Daiquiri is the home of the world famous and justly celebrated Daiquiri cocktail. No wonder the American troops landed there during the Spanish-American war. Daiquiri is our ideal of a landing place. The Americans would be landing there yet but Havana made haste to adopt the Daiquiri cocktail, so that it might stay on the map. There are so many Americans in Havana they have almost crowded the Cubans out. They rush down from New York on the through trains, hop across at Key West, grab a couple of Daiquiri cocktails and catch the next boat back. Havana is bulging with money because of the incoming hordes of thirsty Americans. If the U. S. stays dry Havana is going to be the richest city in the world.

But in Another Clime We Said, "Here's How!"
R. H. L.: Dog-gone it, you went away in such a rush you didn't tell us good-bye. HOWARD.

SPRING IN A CITY.

Spring in these narrow streets, though touched with beauty, Remains no more than a pitiful mockery still
To one who has heard robins singing at twilight,
Or tended a bonfire high on a blue-gray hill.

Oh, I have sipped wild honey with Queen Titania,
And Pan has often made me a song of reeds,
The buds were mine, and the birds with throat of silver,
And fragrant valleys wherein all beauty feeds.

My heart aches not so much for lonely people
Who dream of horizon lines, pinned with a star,
But for foolish folk who have only the crumbs of beauty,
And are satisfied, not knowing how poor they are.

JESSICA POWERS.

THIS OUGHT TO BE CONTRIBUTORS' DAY—but we just got back from a month's vacation and we simply have to horn in to say how glad we are to be back and to explain why we were away, and one thing and another. And we have made a wonderful discovery—we make it every year: the first day's work after vacation is the hardest one of all. Memories of the play days just gone by—ah, how they crowd into the mind. "Muchacho, uno mas botellito de cervasa y damnio pronto." Now—tut, tut, do not correct our Spanish. It may be rotten, but it brought results. Ah, happy Cuban days!

But Who Asked You What It Cost?

IMPOUND THE WATERS.

Chicago, May 3.—I was born some fifty-odd years ago in Beardstown, Ill. My father was born there. In a general way I know the history of its floods. Beardstown was an Indian village; it stands on an island. Often have I heard my father tell about the "high waters" in the '40s. But never did the floods cover the town.

There is positively only one way to avoid these floods. Impound the water in lakes—big and little—before it reaches the larger streams. Encourage the farmers to make small ponds and educate them as to their value. State and national governments should erect dams on every suitable location where the amount of water impounded would justify the cost. In the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma great artificial lakes can be formed that would make most wonderful fish and game clubs.

I have seen Kansas, with its unwritten law that every farmer should make a small pond, change the hot winds that once burned the corn in July and August to moist winds that now aid the crops. Dams, big and little, can hold back the floods.

The Mississippi valley with its vast resources and its people exceeds and can be made to far exceed any other section of land in the world. I hope that this flood may be the last, and I hope that this flood may cause the people in the north and south, Democrats and Republicans, to recognize a common interest in which justice will be done. The Mississippi valley needs a leader, some one who will have the support and cooperation of all the people, those in the cities and those in the country; a leader that will build the valley until the east and west recognize it as self-sustaining, self-contained, as a valley empire, as it were, and not just an indifferent part of the United States. MARTIN L. KORN.

TRACING AN IMPOSTOR.

Chicago, May 4.—My aunt, Mrs. Anna Pettibone, 316 Belden Avenue, was very much interested in the letter dated April 12, 1927, from "Austin" entitled "A Confidence Game." This same impostor called on her and gave exactly the same story. He had evidently gotten his information from an old story, as it was suggested by Austin.

MURKIN IS IN IT.

Chicago, May 4.—Replying to Rita Brown and others of like views, may I suggest that they travel beyond the hinterland of Smith, Brown, and Jones to Kentucky or Virginia, the home of real civilization, and discover in this cradle of America's trust culture what a gentleman is.

In reply to Austin, since when as a bunch of New England women and yokels consider themselves indispensable to a body of southern gentlemen of wealth and rank, descended from high nobility?

Or, to simplify matters, consult Webster's dictionary, which defines a "gentleman" as "a man well born, one of a good family, one above the condition of a woman." MURKIN or VINO.

A PARENT DOUBTS IT.

Chicago, May 4.—I note that in this morning's Tribune a statement by the superintendent of schools quotes him as saying that the four year high school course given under his direction is worth $100 to the recipient.

I had a girl in this school and she graduated with first class grades from high school and it took over a year of additional work to make up the credits needed for any first class university, as her time had been frittered away with the fool subjects and fake subjects that had been installed to increase the pay roll.

If this course is worth $100, how much would a real high school course be worth?

MUSSOLINI CURE KNOCKS WIND OUT OF ITALY'S TRADE

Rise of Lira Brings on Business Failures.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Copyright: 1927 by The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, May 8.—Premier Mussolini's program for deflation and revaluation of the lira has been crowned with political success, but his miracle working in Italian finance may cost the nation's industry dearly, for awhile, at least. The loss of foreign markets, owing to the high price of Italian wares, may have a lasting effect on Italy's commerce. It is certain that the effect of what many bankers call the too rapid rise of the lira is now being felt extensively by the nation's business and industry.

The Tribune correspondent has just returned to Rome after making a detailed investigation in the commercial and industrial regions of northern Italy. There he found general production decreasing rapidly. Bankers, especially those who finance big commercial undertakings, expressed fears that the business depression had just begun, and that before normal conditions are reestablished there will have been many business failures and more general hard times.

Financial Structure Sound at Base.
At bottom Italy's financial structure is sound. This is the opinion of virtually every financial expert. But no business, no matter how sound, can pass through a period of rapid fluctuation, either upward or downward, without serious consequences.

It is pointed out that while the average number of business failures in 1918 and in 1925 and 1926 was under twenty-five a day, in the first three months of 1927 the number had increased to more than thirty-five a day. In the thirteen business days from April 19 to May 4, inclusive, there were 639 failures, either voluntary or involuntary, in Italy, according to Il Sole, organ of the Milan chamber of commerce.

"War Babies" Disappearing.
Bankers say these figures are not alarming and are more or less to be expected as soon as a general financial depression hits a country. Most of the firms which failed were small ones which sprung up during the war in numbers greater than the country could support in normal times. These firms are being allowed to disappear for the general good of the nation.

It is pointed out, however, that the full effects of the depression are not yet being felt. However, it is significant that several large banking and industrial institutions have been saved only by the direct intervention and assistance by the government. One large bank, which must remain anonymous, was put on its feet when failure appeared certain through Premier Mussolini's orders to Milan's most capable banker to take over its management and to provide sufficient credits to tide it over. Two large automotive undertakings likewise were saved from failure by government intervention, chiefly in the form of government orders for airplane motors and other necessary military supplies.

Heavy Industries in Bad Shape.
The heavy industries in the textile trade, with the exception of the artificial silk business, are in a precarious condition. While the official unemployment figures do not show a great increase, there is more part time employment than before. The large textile firms are operating three or four days a week rather than lay off workers entirely. Representatives of the American cotton firms are finding practically no market for bale cotton.

In the automotive industry there has been a considerable overproduction.

Explains Jump of Lira.

There have been two important causes for the rapid rise in the value of the lira, which has gone entirely beyond the government's estimate. The first and probably most important is the number of loans in foreign currency negotiated for Italy's account, giving the country a surplus for exchange. Second, there has been much speculation abroad in lira, based on Premier Mussolini's speeches, which created an unusual demand in other countries for the lira. There was no intention to permit the increase in the value of the lira to be so rapid as to disorganize the country's industry and finance, but nothing but a retraction of the revaluation policy would stop the rise in value when it became dangerous to industry. This, naturally, was impossible for Premier Mussolini, for political reasons.

In six months the increase brought the lira from the low value of 330 cents to 530 or 540 cents. At the same time wholesale prices were reduced only 30 per cent, while retail costs show only about 1 per cent reduction today.

Mussolini Facing Biggest Test.

The question of balancing Italy's budget, which naturally has been disorganized by the rapid increase of the lira, is an important one. The gold value of Italy's internal debt has been increased from $1,500,000,000 to more than $5,000,000,000. Bankers point out that this probably is the most serious aspect of the entire problem.

Premier Mussolini's financial task for the future appears to be the most serious problem he has had to face since his advent to power. It might be called a real test for Fascism.

BANDITS RAID OIL STATION.
Two armed men yesterday took $18 from Charles W. Fisher of 3721 South Campbell avenue, attendant at a gasoline station at 35th street and Western avenue.

FITTING FEET

Making shoes that feel well and look well on feminine feet—beautiful shoes that fit—is the accomplishment of I. Miller and his skilled associates. A shoe that fits perfectly must be made perfectly. In the beginning it must be made to fit by the painstaking co-ordination of every trained craftsman at the factory. I. Miller has devoted more than twenty-five years to the intensive study of feminine foot requirements and to the creation of shoes that fit.

COOLIDGE AGENT GOES TO LOOK OVER MINNESOTA

Viewed 3 Summer Home Sites in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 8.—[Special.] President Coolidge, should he decide to spend the summer in Wisconsin, would be interested in only three of the scores of sites offered by residents of the state as a summer White House. It was indicated today when his secret service aid, Col. Edward Starling, left for St. Paul and the Minnesota "Land of Ten Thousand Lakes."

The three places inspected by Col. Starling were the Victor Lawson estate at Green Lake, now owned by a real estate syndicate; Fahrwald, on Lake Winnebago, home of E. C. Fahrney, Chicago and Oshkosh financier, and the home of G. B. Heinemann, Wausau, on Trout Lake. All possess the facilities necessary to a presidential party, which means good roads, office space for 7 to 10 clerks, accommodations for newspaper correspondents and photographers and general help. Col. Starling refused to give his impressions of any of the sites visited. The President's choice, however, is expected to be made known within two weeks, inasmuch as considerable work will have to be done on the place selected in the way of installing telegraph and telephone service, etc., before the presidential party moves from Washington on June 20.

FINDS GAS TAX UNNECESSARY IN ROAD BUILDING

Investigation of state finances has shown that the proposed gasoline tax is unnecessary to carry on an extensive road building program in Illinois, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, declared yesterday. "The state highway department admits that 2,500 miles of roads included in the $100,000,000 bond issue can be built without a gas tax by the end of 1929," he said. "I have found that not only can this be done but that 4,000 miles of road can be built without a gas tax by the end of 1930."

None of the money realized from a gasoline tax can be used for building roads which are not included in the two state highway systems provided for by the $50,000,000 and the $100,000,000 bond issues," Mr. Hayes pointed out.

TENANTS WARNED THEY WILL CARRY INCOME TAX LOAD

State Bill to Exempt Realty Owners.

$5,000. At six per cent, which is generous, his farm returns him an income of $30,000 a year. On that he would pay, under the proposed law, $750. In other words, he would be even more grandly exempt than the city owner.

Contrast the situation of the renter. The city dweller pays rent for his apartment. He pays an income tax on the money he earns to pay the rent. He pays a property tax, too, but his property tax is an indirect one, turned over to his landlord as a part of his rent, and he can receive no exemption from it. He cannot deduct it even from his gross income, for personal living expenses are not deductible.

The tenant farmer, unless his contract stipulates that he is responsible for the taxes, pays so much an acre or turns over a certain percentage of the farm income. He, too, is paying an indirect property tax, but it is the landlord who, under the Illinois measure, gets the exemption.

The proposed Illinois income tax is unfair and discriminatory, say those who speak against it, first, on behalf of the urban dweller as opposed to the farmer; second, for the owner as opposed to the renter.

It is unfair, opponents of the measure say, to impose a tax which will benefit the farm population of only 1,995,000 at the expense of the remainder of the inhabitants of a state of 7,000,000 people.

It is unfair, they say, to enact a law which discriminates in favor of the property owner when, in Chicago, nearly three-quarters of the population rent their dwellings, and in the state 46.9 per cent of the farm lands and 47.7 per cent of individual farms, according to the last census, are run by tenants.

Furthermore, each year sees more and more apartments building in the cities and more and more farms going to tenants. It is pointed out. The income tax instead of righting itself, say those who will carry the fight to the state capital, would impose a discrimination which would grow more and more aggravated with time.

DEATHS IN 1927 AUTO ACCIDENTS NOW TOTAL 300

1926 Was 264.

J. C. Mackey, 28 year old, of Des Plaines, was killed yesterday morning when the automobile he was driving collided with another driven by C. F. Krieter, 721 Forest avenue, Evanston, at Mannheim road and Irving Park boulevard in Morton Grove.

This death raised the toll of automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, to 300. At the corresponding date in 1926 the total number killed was 264. The 300 mark was not reached until May 23.

Mackey was alone in his car. Krieter and two women riding with him were uninjured, although both automobiles were wrecked.

Girl Seriously Injured.
Dolores White, 4 years old, 8605 Yates avenue, was struck and seriously injured yesterday when an automobile piloted by a woman who was learning to drive swerved across the pavement and into a vacant lot at 86th street and Yates avenue. The child, who is a daughter of Police Sergeant Joseph White, was taken to the South Shore hospital. Mrs. Bertha Baumgart, 8605 Yates avenue, the driver, is mother of a 8 month old child. She was held by the police.

A stolen automobile in which five youths were riding crashed into another driven by Albert Nelson, 10211 St. Lawrence avenue, at 107th street and Longwood drive last night. Nelson's wife was injured. The youths fled, but two of them, Frank Kamen, 5731 Loomis street, and James Bastick, 7151 Aberdeen street, were caught. Each is 17 years old.

Hunt Driver Who Fled.
The South Chicago police are seeking the driver of a car that struck and killed Donald Zinick, 40 years old of 8421 Euclid avenue, at 84th street and Muskegon avenue last Saturday night. The driver did not stop after the accident.

Paul R. Johns Jr., 25, who says he is a son of the mayor of Hollywood, Fla., was arrested on a charge of speeding after his automobile collided with one driven by E. W. Olson, 153 West 33rd street in the loop. Johns is a real estate broker with an office at 10 South La Salle street.

KIDNAP LIFE IN SUMMER OUTCAST.
Mrs. Otto Helwig, 50 years old, committed suicide by swallowing poison in her summer home at Glas lake, near Antioch, yesterday, shortly after she and her husband had gone there for the summer from their home at 4348 Cortland avenue. She had been ill in health.

Retired Policeman Held for Shooting in Saloon

One man is in the Jackson Park hospital with a serious bullet wound in his side, and another, a retired policeman, is in jail as the result of a fight in a saloon at 7255 Woodlawn avenue early yesterday. George Miller of 1525 East 3rd street, the victim, says he was shot by Michael Saunders, 43, of 1831 University avenue, when the latter came into the saloon, accused Miller of making uncomplimentary remarks about his police record and then pulled a gun and fired.

SHOOT GROCER, STEAL $75.
Two colored bandits yesterday shot Louis Kowich in the chest area, slugged his father, and took $75 from the cash register in their grocery store at 3350 South State street.

KESSINGER CALLS BOARD OF TRADE THREAT A BLUFF

Chicago to Remain Grain
Trade Center, He Says.

Declaring that Chicago never will be without a board of trade, State Senator Harold Kessinger of Aurora issued a statement yesterday replying to the threat of grain board officials to suspend future trading on Sept. 30 providing the Kessinger control bill, already passed by the senate, becomes law. He indicated that he thought the grain men were bluffing.

"After the Armour Grain company exposures the farmers felt that something should be done," said Senator Kessinger. "The Armour Grain company was suspended by the Chicago Board of Trade, but the officials of the company have not been suspended. Some of them are busy already organizing a new company."

"This licensing bill, which I introduced, was written by my attorney, the Illinois Agricultural association. It does not prevent or restrict future trading. We feel that the threat of the Chicago Board of Trade is made to influence the Illinois house of representatives."

"Seems Too Valuable."
"Seems on the Chicago Board of Trade are too valuable for the board to move, bag and baggage, out of the state. If the board did move it would not hurt the Illinois farmer to do business in Indiana or Wisconsin any more than it hurts the Iowa, Wisconsin or Indiana farmer to do business on the Chicago Board of Trade. Nobody would be hurt except the slow moving officials who have not cleaned up the board and who resist state regulation."

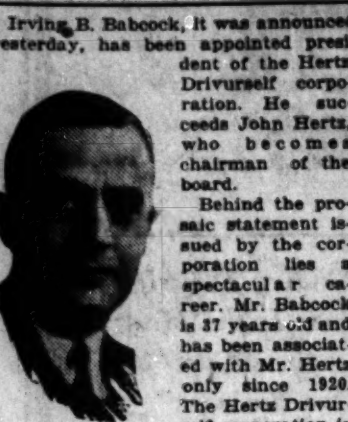

However, if through any fit of stubbornness the Chicago Board of Trade move away, or stays and suspends operations, another middle west board of trade will be organized, get a license, and set up in business.

Predicts a New Board.
"Geographically, economically and from the transportation standpoint, Chicago is the strategic place for the grain mart of America. It might be well for the Chicago Board of Trade officials to know that farmers and financial leaders from St. Louis, Omaha, and Kansas City, and possibly one well known Chicago banker, are ready to form a new board and operate under a fair license law in Illinois."

"It is doubtful if the Illinois house of representatives will be bluffed by the talk of suspension, when the present bill does not affect future trading, but does assure fair treatment for everybody on the Chicago Board of Trade."

QUEEN FAILED TO ECLIPSE ME IN U. S., BISHOP SAYS

Tour Shows Him We're Not Going to Dogs.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
(Copyright: 1927. By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, May 5.—"Despite the opinion of the pessimists both inside and outside the church, there are no indications that we and the Americans are going to the dogs," declared the Rev. Edward Henry Winnington-Ingram, bishop of London, who returned to London last night after a "nine months' world tour which carried him across America."

"At no time in the history of the world have people been so discouraged by doubt and swayed by unbelief, yet my tour has taught me that the morals of the world are not as bad as they are painted," the bishop continued. "Christianity has not failed."

despite the suffering of mankind during the war or the disappointment and bitterness engendered afterward."
When questioned regarding America particularly, the bishop declared enthusiastically: "I was fitted and almost lionized in the United States. Even the queen of Roumania, who was starting there at the same time, did not eclipse me. I used the same red carpet once, in New York. Her reception was a huge success, but she did not get what I got—the degree of doctor of divinity."

"One of my greatest impressions was gained through preaching to 10,000 people in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York. That is a magnificent edifice and a proud monument to Christianity. I was quite proud of my American game of tennis with Miss Helen Wills."

BARES HORRORS OF PRISON CAMP IN NORTH RUSSIA

Yank Arrested by Soviets
Tells His Story.

The following is a continuation of the series of articles on present day Russia by Mr. Kopman, a Brooklyn salesman who was born in Russia and who returned after the war as a salesman for several American firms. After several years he was arrested as a violator of Soviet trade monopoly rules. He was in prison for more than a year.

BY AARON KOPMAN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, May 8.—Picture a long loghouse, 300 by 90 feet, roofed with shingles so poorly laid that the moon shines through, walled with squared logs caked with moss, the floor always wet and damp and covered in the winter with a thin layer of ice, and along the walls and down the center several rows of "nara," double decked bunks. Add to this filth, dirt, vermin, and you have a true picture of the barracks of the Wisheysk prison camp, in the extreme north of Russia, where thirty degrees below zero in October is not uncommon.

These barracks contain from 400 to 450 prisoners, a large percentage of whom are suffering from tuberculosis, scurvy, and social and other diseases. The sick are not isolated. The superintendent says there is a lack of room. But there are logs all around the camp, and yet they say there are not enough barracks for the prisoners.

The superintendent of Wisheysk is Kotelnikoff, a former sailor, a communist, a chekist, and a brute. His assistant, a captain of the guards, is called Ivra, and has all the characteristics of his master.

Break Ice to Wash.

At 5 a. m. the gong rings—just when the sleepers are beginning to get warm. Everybody arises. Some wash and others do not, for one must break thick ice to obtain water, and it is bitter cold outside. Some run to the kitchen and bring back kettles of tea, the same yellow colored water they served me in Moscow Lublanka prison. Still fewer of the prisoners here have sugar, and they hoard it carefully.

At 6 everybody is outside in line, each company separate, for the morning roll call, inspection, and assignments for the day's work. By 7 all are at work, felling trees, scraping off the bark and trimming off the branches and hauling them through the forest to the river bank. Each prisoner is supposed to accomplish a certain amount of work. If he is unable to finish he is either punished or compelled to work overtime.

Each foreman is in charge of from fifteen to twenty men. He divides them into groups—one to fell the trees, another to cut off the branches, another to roll them into piles. Each group of three is supposed to account for twenty-seven pine trees before 6 p. m. Some of these trees are three feet in diameter and they must be felled, the tops cut off, scraped of bark, and piled. This is a physically impossible task, to make two cuts, one at the bottom, the other at the top of the tree with a cheap saw, which must be handled carefully in the bitter cold because of the danger of breaking it.

Must Watch Thief.

You must keep a watchful eye on your logs or they in turn will be stolen by the Yaroslav horse thief and others of his kind. This racial has already made friends with the foreman and is given silver pine and fir trees, which have soft wood.

The work seems beyond human endurance, yet the prisoners struggle on, somehow getting their tasks done. However, sometimes when you pass the barracks at night you will see a row of shivering wretches standing in the snow with a guard watching them. They are the ones who were unable to finish and have been ordered to stand out in the freezing weather for an hour as punishment. In the short summer the punishment is the same, only the prisoners are marched a little way into the woods to be bitten by mosquitoes.

The foreman is no better than the guards. The more work he is able to squeeze out of his squad, the better chance he stands for promotion. He walks around with a heavy birch cudgel, which he is not slow to use on a shirker. Deaths from exhaustion and starvation are not uncommon. Occasionally a man dies under the blows of the foreman, but the latter is not called upon to explain.

Many Are Sick.

Guards who shoot "escaping prisoners" are also promoted and given more congenial tasks and their sentences are shortened. Scarcely a week goes by without one or more of the prisoners being shot. The dead are all buried in the forest by their comrades and a report is sent back to Moscow that such and such a prisoner died of heart disease.

The women prisoners fare slightly better than the men. They do the cooking and clean the camp. Those who are good looking and who are not diseased become the mistresses of the guards and foremen. Already some little children are toddling around, and one wonders if in all this misery a new city is being born in the far north of Perm province.

I happened to be in Leningrad during the summer of 1925 when the bolsheviks met a delegation of English trade union men at the Nicholas railway station. Pioneers (Boy Scouts) and Comsomolits (Russian branch of the Y. M. C. A.) shouted, "Welcome to the representatives of the English proletariat." Automobiles conveyed them to the Hotel Europe. Russian champagne from Crimea was served to them at banquets. They visited a couple of factories, the university, the museums and eventually returned to England singing praises of the bolsheviks.

Pictures of Prison Life.

If a delegation of American workers should ever visit Russia, I would advise them to take their own interpreters along. I would also suggest they avoid visiting for any length of time in Moscow or Leningrad. They should visit some of the smaller and less accessible cities of Russia. They should also visit Solovetski monastery, the prison of political prisoners in the convent in Vladimir, and the colonies of homeless children in Voronezh. It is in these places, and not in Moscow and Leningrad, that they will obtain a true picture of conditions of life in Russia today.

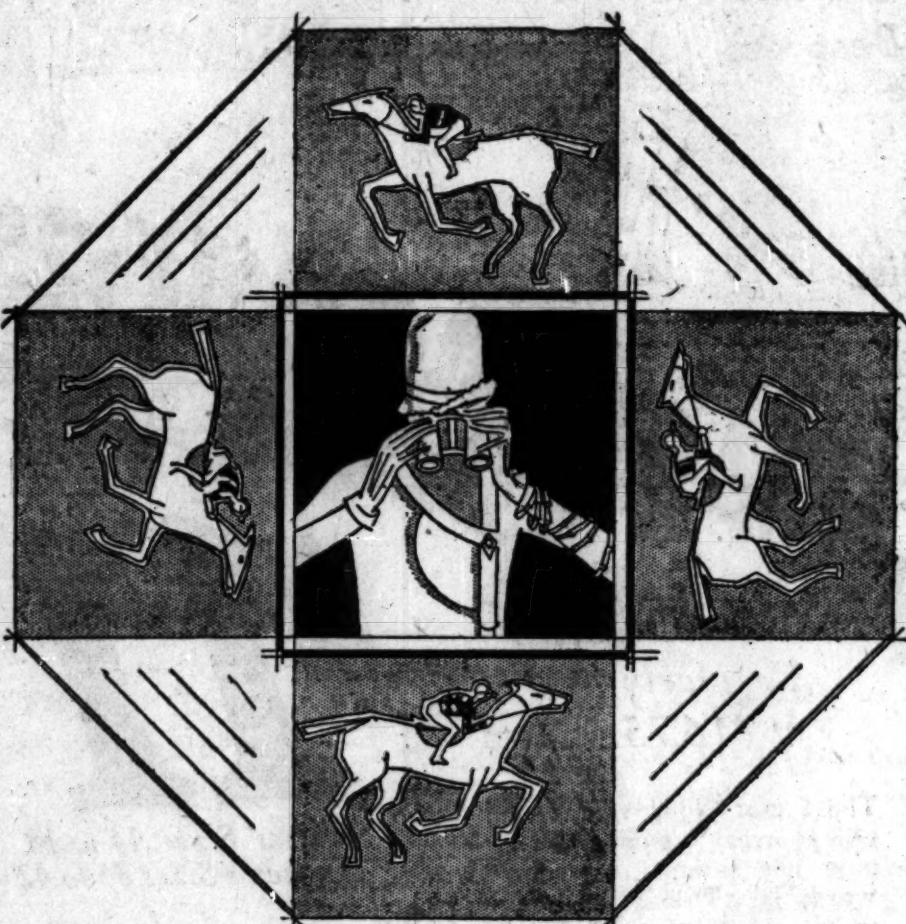

Russia is a tremendous country and the bolsheviks consider Moscow and Leningrad as their store windows. They are careful to keep these cities "spruced up" more than other Russian centers. Therefore visitors to Russia sometimes are impressed.

HOUSEHOLD NEEDS

Piano Quartet Is a Breakfast Cup for Elmer

Finds Schumann Music Is Good Morning's Morning.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

It happened that the Lychenhem piano quartet furnished the writer's breakfast table music, WQJ, 146 to 245. The Schumann quartet in E flat was as stimulating as a cup of good coffee. The first of the two movements of Dvorak's quartet in E flat was musically graphic of an ideal trip from Chicago to the Pacific ocean.

Marion Lychenhem, pianist, deserves special mention for the beauty of her playing.

The Chicago String quartet, with Walt Weber, tenor soloist, supplied the Palmer house, WJJD, 4 to 5, concert. A quartet, each by Dvorak and Mendelssohn, was played complete, among many shorter works. This smoothly flowing concert was delightful.

Herbert Johnson's twenty minutes of big piano music done in a big way, WLBB, 5:30, might continue full thirty minutes and still seem short.

Filled with interest was the appearance of the Chicago Boys' club orchestra and the Chicago Daily News band, Sunday Evening club preliminary program, Orchestra hall, WMAQ, 7 to 7:45. Now and then there were flashes of lovely playing, but the primary interest was that these were boys, building stepping stones for their tomorrow.

Miss Bernice Yanaock, pianist, WEHH, 8 to 8:30, in a program of the modern classics, revealed much of poetry, warmth of tone, and excellent technical finish.

There was a half hour of vocal beauty in the American Singers' program, New York, through W-G-N, 8:15. This male quartet will sing again next Sunday. They are exceptional singers, whether in ensemble or as soloists.

A gem that will hold over and be thought about today was Annemore Bill Hay's readings in honor of Mother's day, W-G-N, 8:45 to 9. The incidental orchestral music became a diverting influence and weakened rather than enhanced the effect of the readings. Therefore in this instance music paid its own tribute to the several poets and their musical voiced interpreter.

CHICAGOANS TO TAKE LEAD IN SOCIAL PARLEY

There also will be Jane Addams of Hull House, Prof. Edith Abbott of the University of Chicago, Dr. Herman Adler, state criminologist and Judge Mary Bartelme of the juvenile court.

Other Chicagoans who will participate in the conference and speak on various topics are Miss Jessie Blinford of the Juvenile Protective association, Allen D. Albert of Evanston, Miss Lina Bessette, Dwight W. Furness, P. T. Harmon, C. V. Williams, Joel Hunter, Miss Amelia Sears, Miss Jane Nell, Mrs. Gudrum Rom, Bernard G. Roloff, Dr. George J. Mohr, Miss Katherine Moore, Miss Cornelia Hopkins, Rowland Haynes, Miss Katherine D. Fisher of Winnetka, Mrs. W. F. Dummer, Miss Frances Dummer of Winnetka, and Miss Sophroniea Brockridge.

A hill 1,000 miles long

At the General Motors Proving Ground are roads that run over 11 per cent grades and 24 per cent grades. (The hills on highways are seldom more than 7 per cent.)

But even these tests are not enough.

So the engineers built a dynamometer into an automobile chassis, which is towed behind the car that is undergoing tests. The mechanism on the resisting chassis can be set to give the equivalent pull of a hill of any desired grade. Thus a "Pike's Peak" can be produced, or "a hill a thousand miles long."

Such tests give you confidence when you choose a General Motors car. You know that it has power enough to stand up under any task and keep cool under any strain.

Good Milk Tastes Good!

Taste is the unmistakable test of a milk's goodness.

Let your children apply the taste test to the milk they drink. Their judgment is remarkably accurate.

Try Borden's. Sip it—drink it. Notice especially its sweet, natural taste.

That is the real test of good milk. And that is why so many families are asking the Borden Milkman to serve their homes.

End Corns Bunions Callouses

You can quickly cure them with Nature-Treads. Nature-Treads lift the center of the foot, drawing it to the center of the ball and heel, thus relieving the pressure that has caused corns and bunions, as well as callouses on the side of the foot. Other foot troubles—like arches, weak ankles, hump foot, flat feet, etc.—are instantly relieved and soon permanently disappear.

Quick Relief, Nature's Way

Unlike other appliances, Nature-Treads adjust the real cause of foot troubles—namely, misplaced bones in the foot's arch, and then massage down the heel. They are not "braces" or habit-forming supports. They develop strong arches they correct permanent curves. Very comfortable.

Light leather slippers and shoes. Put easily in the shoes, changeable from one pair to another. No breaking in. Make them wear evenly and hold their shape.

Just slip Nature-Treads in your shoes and walk with a new freedom and comfort.

10 Days Free Trial

DAVIS DEFENDS THE MODERN GIRL ON MOTHER'S DAY

Pays Tribute to Woman's Inspiring Influence.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 8.—(AP)—Faithfulness to the ideal image of him as a loving mother's heart was his conception of man's highest destiny, said James J. Davis, secretary of the National Council of Congregational churches, in a Mothers' day address here today.

"All that I am in life, all that I have been able to accomplish, I owe to her," was his tribute to his mother, lost since last Mother's day.

"The best in any man is what he derived from his mother, and the greater the man the more indebted to his mother he is always found to have been."

Inspires Human Progress.

"Humanity is slowly making progress, and this progress, I believe, is brought about by the inspiring influence of woman. She has lifted us from the lowlands to the heights, and on those heights marked the milestones of our progress by her love and devotion."

He traced the hand of woman in the world's affairs through the centuries, and asserted that the truth is "our indebtedness to woman is beyond all calculation."

"There are, however, pessimistic voices which profess agreement with everything that has been said in behalf of the motherhood of the past, but are skeptical of the young women of today," he said as he arose in defense of modernity.

Nothing Wrong with Girls.

"I find that the old folks have always been a little skeptical of the younger generation, but they forget their elders. In turn, we are quite skeptical of them. All ages are pretty much alike, and I know of nothing particularly wrong with the girls of today. Some of them are doubtless quite frivolous, but we do not need to worry over them as a class. Most of them will give a good account of themselves when they shall have taken up their places amongst the matrons."

HARVARD TURNS DOWN EUGENICS COURSE LEGACY

Philadelphia, Pa., May 8.—(AP)—Declining to subscribe to the eugenics theories advanced by the late Dr. J. H. Mearns, surgeon and author of this city, Harvard college has rejected a $50,000 legacy Dr. Mearns had provided for founding a eugenics course.

Dr. Mearns, a student of race betterment, died in 1919. In his will he bequeathed $50,000 to Harvard to be used for the eugenics course. Dr. Mearns had been a student of the eugenics course at Harvard, and he had been a student of the eugenics course at Harvard.

Moths First Attack Grease Spots

Moth holes

Grease and Soil attract Moths, and when you find moth holes in your clothes, you can be almost certain they were first Grease Spots. So be sure you remove all Grease Spots before putting your clothes away—pay particular attention to the edges of collars and cuffs. Go over your furniture upholstery, carpets, rugs, draperies, etc. because they too are likely to be damaged by moths, even though they are in daily use.

CHURCHES WILL TALK UNION AT OMAHA MEETING

BY THE REV. W. B. BORTON.

Whether Congregationalists are to unite with the Universalists either in organic union or as to form one denomination, or in such an agreement that there will be an interchange of ministers and a co-operation in work will be one of the absorbing questions to be discussed at the National Council of Congregational churches which will meet in Omaha, Neb., May 25-June 1.

Already union meetings of Universalists and Congregationalists have been held at different centers. In a meeting in Beverly, Mass., three Congregational churches and one Universalist church held a joint meeting on April 10.

The moderator of the national council is Frank J. Harwood, a business layman of Appleton, Wis., widely known for his Sunday school leadership.

The place of meeting will be the Central Congregational church, of which the pastor is the Rev. Frank O. Smith, D. D., for several years pastor of the Warren Avenue church, Chicago.

Banners protesting against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti for murder in Massachusetts also were displayed. John Pippin, 3343 Emerald avenue, led the marchers.

The COLUMBINE

Flower of Travel Comfort to COLORADO

Beginning May 15th

A new year-around train named for the state flower of Colorado! The last word in travel elegance between Chicago and Denver! The slogan of the Columbine is "the flower of travel comfort"—and it means just that.

From the extra large Observation Platform you may view the ever-changing panorama. There's the Library—the latest magazines, a quiet, commodious Writing Compartment—the latest market reports—deep, cushiony chairs, rich, thick carpeting and wide windows that frame the vistas of the West.

There's a Men's Club Room for a friendly rubber of bridge—smokes—and an atmosphere that promotes acquaintance with your fellow man. . . . There's a Women's Lounge for peaceful privacy, with little feminine touches for the ladies. . . . And there's a Barber Shop, a valet and a Shower Bath to freshen you up—all to start the day right. . . . You'll find the Fountain Service delightful for a soda or a sundae or a long cool drink.

The Dining Car is devoted to the Inner Man. The viands are the best that the great markets East and West can supply. You can take the excellence of the silver and linen and tableware for granted—but not the old-fashioned courtesy of our specially trained waiters. And the Sleeping Cars are the latest and finest that Pullman builds.

Little niceties and refinements—all of 'em—to delight you and shorten the journey.

The Columbine leaves Chicago daily at 10:30 a. m., arriving in Denver the next afternoon at two. Only one night enroute—Rocky Mountain National Park same evening by Motor Bus.

Two Other Daily Trains

For a late departure—Colorado Express—year-around train, leaves at 11:55 p. m. Beginning June 6th—Denver Special—the popular seasonal train, leaves at 6:05 p. m.

15 TO START TODAY IN $50,000 PREAKNESS STAKE

SCAPA FLOW AND WHISKERY ARE FAVORED TO WIN

3 Chicago Horses to Run.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Baltimore, Md., May 8.—At the Hilltop turf course, where George Washington and "Old Hickory" Jackson once went to the races, fifteen thoroughbreds are tonight awaiting the running of a $50,000 turf classic. For it will be Preakness day in Maryland when the sun begins to peep in an old Hilltop tomorrow.

No longer is this historic meeting place of gentlemen and their blue blooded, thoroughbred known as old Hilltop. They call it Pimlico now, and the running of the Preakness in mid-afternoon tomorrow will be just one more famous race to be decided over the oldest race track in America.

The Preakness is the first of America's great three year old classics to be decided this year. Its running comes five days before the famous Kentucky Derby. Twelve of its fifteen overnight entries are eligible to the Derby. Some six, eight or ten of them may travel on to the blue grass country tomorrow night to fight it out in the Derby struggle.

Chicago Enters Three Horses.
The Preakness has usually been strictly a sectional turf affair. The east has sent its best into the race. The west has waited until the Derby to dispute the issue. This is not the case this year. Of the fifteen possible starters four are from the west, three from Chicago and the other from Kentucky. Canada is represented by two entries and the east by nine.

But in this delegation of nine possible starters the east holds a powerful hand, a hand which may sweep to victory in the Preakness, then go on and race to another and more glorious triumph in the Derby of next Saturday afternoon.

Whiskery and Scapa Flow. As the crowds came into town tonight for the lavish Monday afternoon turf entertainment these names were on every tongue. Whiskery, the Preakness and Derby hope of Harry Payne Whitney; Scapa Flow, one of the greatest sons of man of War, which will race in the silks of Walter M. Jeffords of Philadelphia.

West Given Silly Chance.
Those westerners on the side lines getting but little or no consideration were Buddy Bauer, which will represent Col. Edward R. Bradley of Kentucky; Candy Hog and Crystal Domino, which will race for H. Teller Archibald of Chicago, and the one owned by William Daniel of Chicago and the most talked about three year old to race last winter. The two Canadians were Sir Harry, winner of the Cofroth handicap, and his stablemate, Wandering Minstrel, neither of which has been given any more consideration than the quiet quartet from the west.

Harry Payne Whitney has three chances for his Preakness. Whiskery, spectacular winner of his only two starts this year, is, of course, his chief hope and this son of Whisk Broom II. Prudery will likely be his chief hope in the Derby. For his running mates tomorrow, Bostonian and Pandera have been named. The latter, a filly, has not been named for the Derby.

Buddy Bauer Best Bet.
Scapa Flow will play a lone hand for Walter M. Jeffords and from the street corner all tonight may be the post time favorite tomorrow afternoon, despite the two great races Whiskery has turned in this year. His race on Friday afternoon, in which he beat a mediocre field at a mile and seventy yards was in the shape of a tightener up, but most people who witnessed it say he gave every evidence of being a thoroughly fit racehorse.

Among the westerners, Buddy Bauer is the only one given any consideration. His fine race at Lexington last week gave this loyal crowd of easterners a new nervous chill. Bradley has come into Maryland in other years and won races. The easterners are a bit afraid that he is making a strong bid for a Preakness post tomorrow.

Justice F. was beaten at his last race by Sir Harry. This might not have been a truly run race, but it was enough to convince the crowds here that he has but little chance in the Preakness. They don't give Sir Harry much of a chance. Justice F. in the rating is below Sir Harry.

Saxon, Black Panther Long Shots.
Two others, both from New York, are given a long shot chance to turn back Whiskery and Scapa Flow. They are Mrs. Payne Whitney's Saxon and Walter J. Selmon's Black Panther. In their only meeting this year Saxon beat Black Panther a nose in a stubborn ding dong finish at Jamaica. Either may be better than his record indicates, but they were both easy for Scapa Flow as two year old last season. Other possibilities are Fair Star, a filly owned by William Dupont of Delaware, and Jopagan, owned by A. G. Weston of New York.

While a drizzle of rain was falling here tonight the Pimlico track remained fast. Most of the field of fifteen have turned in good races in the mud, and even a heavy track is not expected to reduce the field to less than a dozen starters.

SEEKS PREAKNESS PRIZE

Scapa Flow, 3 year old son of Man o' War, will attempt to uphold his family traditions in the Preakness stake at Pimlico today against a stellar field of Derby eligibles. Scapa Flow will carry the silks of W. M. Jeffords in both the Preakness and the Derby.

Mr. Ernst Jacobson, President of United Public Service Company, summarizes as follows his letter descriptive of this issue, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned:

Business: United Public Service Company, a New Jersey corporation, will own all of the capital stocks (except directors' qualifying shares) of United Public Utilities Company, Southern United Ice Company and at least 99% of the capital stock of Southern United Gas Company to be presently outstanding. These subsidiaries will furnish public utility service (either directly or through operating companies at least 95% of whose outstanding capital stocks will be owned) to a group of 43 communities in the territory lying between Dayton, Ohio, and Winchester, Indiana; to a group of 42 communities in North and South Dakota and to Fort Smith and Van Buren, Arkansas; and will furnish ice service in 19 communities located principally in Tennessee, Mississippi and Louisiana. Electric light and power is supplied to 15,000 customers and gas to 10,021 consumers. The total combined population of the territory supplied with electric light and power and gas service alone is estimated to be in excess of 175,000.

The properties of the operating companies include electric power stations having a combined generating capacity of 13,695 H. P.; ice plants having daily ice-making capacity of 1,600 tons; gas plants of 165,000 cubic feet daily capacity, supplemented by natural gas; 85 wells producing natural gas; leases covering 9,000 acres of proven gas lands; 154 miles of gas transmission line and 559 miles of electric transmission lines.

Indenture Provisions: These Notes will be, in the opinion of counsel, the direct obligation of the Company, and will be subject to the Collateral Trust Gold Bonds to be outstanding. The Note Agreement will provide that no additional secured or unsecured funded debt (other than Collateral Trust Gold Bonds) may be issued unless earnings (as defined in the Note Agreement) applicable to interest on funded debt, on the basis of a consolidated statement, for twelve consecutive months out of the preceding fifteen months shall exceed the annual interest charge on the Collateral Trust Gold Bonds by an amount equal to at least three times the annual interest charges on all such funded debt (other than Collateral Trust Gold Bonds) outstanding and to be issued.

Earnings: Consolidated earnings of the operating properties for the calendar year 1926 (including $40,817.09 estimated net earnings of certain properties for portions of the year prior to acquisition and eliminating reported non-recurring net expenses of $133,673.46), as certified by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, Certified Public Accountants, were as follows:

|---|----------------|
| Gross Earnings  | $3,363,216.23 |
| Operating Expenses, including Maintenance and Taxes (other than Federal income taxes) but before depletion and depreciation | 1,783,446.13   |
| Net Earnings  | $1,579,770.10 |
| Total Annual Interest Required  | 806,000.00     |
| Balance   | $ 773,770.10  |
| Annual Note Interest Required   | 93,000.00      |

The balance of net earnings, as shown above, was over 8.3 times the annual interest requirement on this issue of Notes.

Of such net earnings, approximately 70% was derived from public utility sources and 30% from the ice business.

Purpose of Issue: These $1,550,000 of Notes, together with the Fifteen-Year Collateral Trust 6% Gold Bonds and the Capital Stock of the Company presently to be outstanding, will be issued in exchange for the capital stock of the Subsidiaries to be acquired by the Company and for working capital.

Management: The management will be in the hands of men who have had long and successful experience in the public utility field.

We offer these Notes if, when and as issued and assigned by us, and subject to approval of legal proceedings by counsel. Legal proceedings will be passed upon by Messrs. Jam and Head, Chicago. Advice by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, Certified Public Accountants. Engineering examinations and valuations by Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., Day & Zimmerman, Inc., Messrs. Spooner and Merrill, and Ralph E. | PURPOSE OF ISSUE   | The proceeds of this issue will be applied, in part, to the payment and retirement of $23,919,450 short-term notes and loans, including the 6% Collateral Notes held by the United States Government and those formerly held by the Director-General of Railroads, and $10,000,000 Two-Year Secured 4% Gold Notes which are to be called for retirement on July 1, 1927. Upon the retirement of such obligations, the Company will be entirely free from floating debt. The balance of the proceeds will be used for additions and betterments to the Company's property, to increase its working capital and for other corporate purposes.   |  |                     |                     |                          |                                    |                     |            |      |               |               |              |                   |      |             |             |            |            |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |            |
| IMPROVEMENT OF PROPERTY  | Since 1907, substantially the entire net income of the Company, aggregating approximately $97,000,000, has been invested in additions and improvements, applied to the reduction of debt or added to working capital. Between June 30, 1907 and December 31, 1926, the Company's net investment in road and equipment (without deducting accrued depreciation on equipment) increased by over $148,000,000, whereas its funded debt, including equipment trust certificates, increased by less than $36,000,000. The improvements effected during this period have made possible a large increase in the traffic carried and a marked improvement in operating efficiency.   |  |                     |                     |                          |                                    |                     |            |      |               |               |              |                   |      |             |             |            |            |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |            |

| SECURITY*  | Subject to underlying mortgages securing $195,353,300 bonds outstanding in the hands of the Erie System, comprising about 2,185 miles of line. The Mortgage is a direct lien on 853 miles of road owned in fee and a lien upon the Company's rights by stock ownership, leasehold and otherwise in the rest of the System covered by the Mortgage. Upon the retirement of the above mentioned short-term notes and loans from the proceeds of this issue, these $50,000,000 Bonds will be the only bonds outstanding under the Mortgage.  |  |                     |                     |                          |                                    |                     |            |      |               |               |              |                   |      |             |             |            |            |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |            |
|  | Subject to the prior liens of the Company's Pennsylvania Collateral Indenture and of its General Mortgage securing, respectively, $13,140,000 4% Bonds and $37,331,600 4% Convertible Bonds outstanding in the hands of the public, the Mortgage has a lien upon the entire capital stock of the Pennsylvania Coal Company, which has no funded debt outstanding. The Coal Company's average annual net earnings for the ten years ended December 31, 1926 were $1,915,575, as compared with $2,018,000 for the same period. The present total annual interest charges on the prior debt secured on that Company's capital stock. The latter figure will be reduced to approximately $1,200,000 if all the Series D General Mortgage Bonds are converted prior to the expiration of the conversion privilege on October 1, 1927, and will be further reduced to $849,500 upon the complete retirement of the Pennsylvania Collateral Bonds, which, based on the current rate of retirement by sinking fund, should be effected by December 31, 1935.  |  |                     |                     |                          |                                    |                     |            |      |               |               |              |                   |      |             |             |            |            |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |           |      |             |            |            |            |

The New York Times.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—In last week's events the statement by the president of the stock exchange that his institution's sighted average of prices for stocks showed on an advance, evoked immediate controversy. He showed that the stock exchange's average of Nov. 1, 1925, had never subsequently been reached.

The rise of prices for some stocks during the ensuing year have been more than offset by the decline in others. Mr.
Stimmons himself recognized that the claim was at variance with the average of outside compilers, which have been pretty uniformly indicated continuous advance, interrupted by occasional, but temporary declines, until the highest post-war figure was attained this year.

Some Show Big Increase.

Some of them worked out an advance of 15 per cent or more since November 1925. None of them agree absolutely, for the systems that they are reckoned on different systems; most by using a selected and typical list of stocks, of which the selection and the number selected varies in a given week. Naturally this produces variations that cannot be pronounced an absolute picture of the entire market, because it does not include the computation of all stocks actually dealt in during the period.

The stock exchange does that; but, on the other, its own computation is con-fessionally impaired in another way. A stock whose market value per share has been reduced through distribution of a large stock dividend, it necessarily regards as the same stock, and therefore the averages are "weighted" according to the actual amount of a given stock outstanding at the moment. This error however, this very thing, it introduces an artificial element into the calculation, since the great mass of inactive shares tend to counterbalance the movement of the stock which has actually in Wall street's phrase, made up the market.

Probably it will still be the judgment of the financial community that although the selected averages cannot be absolutely accurate and although chance may produce a rise in the shares selected out of proportion to the rise of the general market, they indicate more correctly the trend of the speculative movement.

Argues Little That's New.

A problem of the bond market was propounded by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P.
Morgan & Co. in his address to the international chamber of commerce on our foreign investments. His warning that rash or excessive lending should be avoided embodied no new view of the situation. It has become somewhat natural, with the recent rapid diminishment in the yield on standard investment bonds, there has been a search for a higher interest rate and that foreign securities, not of the highest grade, have been taken with no great scrutiny by American investors.

Mr. Lamont pronounced, however, another and highly perplexing question, the foreign borrowing countries will be able indefinitely to continue remittance of the interest payment on the increasing obligations to America. This is a question that greatly has puzzled economist thinkers ever since the war.

Leading Appears Natural.

That a nation to which the world is indebted on such a scale and to which the normal excess of yearly payments even on merchandise transactions, is no very great, must balance the account through a familiar enough principle.

The United States commerce department estimates indicate that, if we had not taken $20,000,000 of new foreign borrowing in the latest year reported on,
the aggregate visible and invisible credit, accrued in our favor during the twelve months would have been $342,000,000.

That impending condition was met in the perfectly logical way. Yet it left the question whether if this method of balancing the account were to be pursued indefinitely and without an excess of merchandise imports such as England escapes, it would not be the longer occupying the nineteenth century when result would not be the aggravation rather than the relief of the economic situation.

Mr. Lamont does not answer the question categorically; perhaps nobody could do so. He refers with much confidence, however, to Europe's rapid economic recuperation, the development of its agriculture and manufacturing, the increase in its home supply of capital, to countries in the prospective return, to countries with a newly stabilized currency, of the home capital which had fled to America
during the depreciation period.

Freight and Passenger Traffic of C. & E. I. Gains

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois is one of the few railroads to enjoy increases in both freight and passenger traffic last year. The annual report for 1926 made public last night, shows freight revenue increased $1,483,816 over 1925, while passenger revenue gained $182,901.
Total income increased $1,666,717. Net income was $418,055, equivalent to $1.16
a share on the $22,046,100 preferred stock. No dividends were paid and accumulated preferred dividends have accrued since Jan. 1, 1925. Profit was carried to surplus, which now stands at $2,558,094. In 1925 the road had a deficit of $52,284 before preferred dividend requirements.

SUPREME IN CHICAGO

First in Advertising First in Circulation

The heavy line shows The Tribune's local advertising lineage in comparison with the other Chicago newspapers.

In national advertising The Tribune is far ahead of all other Chicago newspapers.

Note the lineage charts showing The Tribune's supremacy in local, in national and in the above chart, in total display advertising. The Tribune's position is unchallenged. Every month in the year The Tribune leads all other Chicago newspapers.

A GAIN in 1926 The Tribune led all other Chicago newspapers in advertising lineage. Total advertising lineage of the four leading newspapers for the year 1926:

|                     |                  |
|---------------------|------------------|
| Chicago Tribune     | 32,715,561 Lines |
| Daily News          | 21,811,503 Lines |
| Chicago American    | 13,726,488 Lines |
| Herald and Examiner | 12,987,654 Lines |

The Tribune's Volume of Advertising Is More Than Ten Million Lines Greater Than the Second Chicago Newspaper

The Tribune led in all three groups—national, local and want advertising. Advertisers in 1926 bought 37.3% more display advertising in The Tribune than in the next Chicago newspaper. The Tribune carried 32.3% of all display advertising appearing in Chicago newspapers. In want ads, The Tribune carried more lineage than the next three newspapers combined.

Of the total gains in display lineage enjoyed by all Chicago newspapers in 1926, The Tribune had 34.5%. This was a 10.3% greater gain than that made by the next paper.

The Tribune carried almost twice as much national advertising as any other Chicago newspaper. The leaders in national advertising were:

|                     | 1926 Lineage    | Per cent of Total |
|---------------------|-----------------|-------------------|
| Chicago Tribune     | 8,077,725 Lines | 36.8%             |
| Daily News          | 4,047,517 Lines | 18.4%             |
| Herald and Examiner | 3,707,907 Lines | 16.9%             |
| Chicago American    | 3,172,827 Lines | 14.5%             |

The Tribune Carried 99.6% More National Lineage Than the Second Chicago Newspaper

Antiquated slogans often are relinquished in fact, if not in print. By devious methods of figuring, they are given a semblance of truth. Artificial respiration is sometimes used to keep slogan users where they once were, and where they should like to continue to be. This page is dedicated to a desire to clear up any uncertainty as to who is "first in Chicago."

An analysis is here presented of the standing of the leading newspapers in the 28 advertising classifications in which the Advertising Record company keeps lineage figures. A perusal of this shows quickly how the Chicago newspapers stand on advertising lineage.

DREADFUL STORY OF THE OSTRICH

A FEW days ago an agency space buyer phoned to ask us about the advertising of a certain toothpaste. "We've got some stuff from one of your competitors saying they carried this toothpaste exclusively," said the space buyer. "If I'm not crazy I've seen it in The Tribune."

"Not crazy at all," we replied. "That toothpaste company spent two and half times as much in The Tribune last year as it did in the only other newspaper it used in Chicago."

"How about this stuff, then?"

"Well," said we, "If you look closely you'll probably find a qualifying adjective tucked deftly away somewhere. Look for the word 'daily'. That means that the $30,000 spent in our Sunday rotogravure section doesn't count. Their statistician has his fingers crossed whenever he sees a Sunday issue of The Tribune."

The space buyer found the "daily" and got the idea. Being on the subject, we continued:

"Maybe you've seen their ads in the trade papers about a well-known baking powder advertiser. You'd think this advertiser couldn't see any other newspaper. The fact is, however, The Tribune carried considerably more lineage on this product. The company spends twice as much money with us. But it's mostly in the Sunday issue."

"Do you let them get away with that?" asked the space buyer.

"Well," said we, "What's the sense of getting into an alley scrap? They can't kid many advertisers very long. You know very well."

"Sure," said we, "You know the story of the ostrich."

if they had any better testimonials, they'd use 'em, instead."

"Maybe you're right."

"If you ever catch us pointing with pride to successes where some other newspaper did most of the work—no matter on what day of the week they did it—you can be sure we're slipping fast. Incidentally our friends up the street claim supremacy in automobile advertising about this time every year. However we carried in 52 Sunday issues alone last year 1,139,098 lines of automobile advertising while they carried 668,255 lines in 309 issues."

"It must be comforting to them," remarked the space buyer, "to annul that sort of competition."

"Sure," said we, "You know the story of the ostrich."

"Daily, except Sunday"

The Tribune printed ten million agate lines more than any other Chicago newspaper. The News, according to one of its advertisements published "the greatest volume of advertising ever carried by a Chicago daily newspaper."

What's the answer? When the Chicago News says "daily" it means what the railroad time tables call "daily, except Sunday." It never thinks of the Sunday issues of The Tribune for publication except in the four cases (out of 28 chances) where the News leads in total lineage. Or is it in circulation that the News is "first in Chicago?"

NEWS—
Week days ..... 440,448 (March Average).

TRIBUNE—
Week days ..... 765,086 (March Average).
Sundays ..... 1,204,240 (March Average).

The Tribune's week day circulation in city and suburbs alone is 150,000 greater than the total circulation of the News.

Would it seem too unfriendly to inquire: "First in what?"

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Little Old Job Is One Wife's Rival for Hubby's Time BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Will you please write an article on how a husband should try to make his wife happy? I love my husband but we cannot be happy, as he is quiet and loves his work, giving it nearly all his time. Then comes his hobby, I only ask him for more of himself. He is liberal with money, but I crave his companionship—Neglected Wife."

Another letter before me, curiously enough, is from a wife whose husband hangs around the house all the time, earns no money, and consequently gives her none.

Of which is the kingdom of matrimony!

But would an article on how a husband should try to make his wife happy make one small dent on the consciousness of the gentleman involved? I doubt it. It has been done by brilliant novelists and essayists, and yet more goes on teasing women into misery with the niggardliness of his companionship. In fact, I recently read a brilliant study on the discontent of American women, in which the business man whose motto appears to be, "I could not love thee half so much did I not love my work more," was tried, convicted and hung up in the market square as the Arch-enemy of happiness.

The articles referred to denied the conventional deficits of the man who gives his all to the great god commerce. I have my doubts if any man reading it took it to heart sufficiently to order a best seller in fiction that he might discuss with his wife.

It is just one of those things you run up against in life if you choose the kind of man whose love can be riveted to his job. If the wife, herself, cannot change him—no article will help. I believe a wife can make herself agreeably happy in spite of the predicament she finds herself in. She may out-vamp this rival, work, if she is clever and patient. It may not be true with "Neglected Wife," but it is true of many neglected wives that companionship is denied them because they will not readjust their own tastes. There should be compromise on both sides, to be sure, but if you cannot change a man, then the smart thing to do is to stop nagging and go ahead and introduce something else into your life that will engage your time and interest. Husbands, I gather, not unlike their "unchained" brothers are apt to be more interested where they are not bounded continually for their companionship. Anyway, the best rule is to make the best of the blessings marriage did send, generosity being a noble one, and thank God your troubles aren't the worst in the world.

Tight Lipped Mouth, and That Set Look, Never Won Any Jury

At the time of writing this an army of clever writers is sending out pen portraits of Mrs. Ruth Snyder, the blonde half of the co-starting team of the season's most sensational murder. Try as the more kindly disposed of them will to make an approach to defendant, the hard line of mouth "stumps" them. Not the blonde locks, which ordinarily men cannot see without a sentimental quiver, nor the trim figure smartly attired, nor the well turned ankle are sufficient to override that thin, determined set of the lips.

Now we are not out to advocate softer mouth expressions for women who may become involved in future legal difficulties. We cannot predict at this writing to what extent the unpleasant mouth feature may or may not affect a jury. Since there is so much more damning evidence piled up against the Snyder woman, a lovable cupid's bow might serve her not at all. Except that men are men and woman's lips are—well, they ARE ARE.

Which is my sole alibi for introducing today the Ruth Snyder topic that will have been threaded by the time this appears in print. Women's lips are of her own making, which cannot be argued against her nose or her ears. And you will have to admit a lot of women whose moral behavior will never cast so much as a slight suspicion on their moral character are letting hardness creep into their faces, and particularly into that most obvious feature, the mouth. It isn't the hardness of cruelty. It is the hardness of tense nerves; sometimes of bitterness, with one illusion after another shattered on the rocky pavements of life, and, again, they may be the "fighter's" lines that set the jaw and all the tightened lips.

Dr. Ira Harvey Woolson,
Consulting Engineer, Dies
Dr. Ira Harvey Woolson, for 17 years consulting engineer for the National Board of Fire Underwriters, died yesterday at Alexian Brothers hospital, where he had been taken on Thursday following a cerebral hemorrhage. Dr. Woolson, who had recently come to Chicago on a business visit from his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., was 70 years old. He was accompanied by his wife, who will return to Brooklyn today with the body. Dr. Woolson was chairman of the building code commission of the United States department of commerce.

Col. Robert Bingham,
Pioneer Educator, Dies
Ashville, N. C., May 8.—(AP)—Col. Robert Bingham, pioneer educator and headmaster of the Bingham Military school, died today. He was 89 years old. At the bedside were his son, Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and the Louisville Times, and his daughters, Mrs. R. T. Griffin and Mrs. S. R. McKee. Col. Bingham was the third generation of Bingham to head the school which was founded by his grandfather in 1793. He was a veteran of the civil war.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

She Likes Him.
"Dear Miss Blake: I am deeply in love with a fellow who, every time I see him, smiles and says, 'Hello,' or stops and talks to me. Please advise me, 'Anxious.'"
When he stops and chats with you let him see it pleases you. He's trying to find out where he stands, don't you think?

Why you should use an unscented toilet soap

Of course you don't want the artificial scent of a soap to linger on your skin and confuse the subtle odor of the perfume you choose as your own. But for the woman who values a fine complexion there are two other reasons why an unscented soap is the only safe soap. Perfume may be decidedly irritating to the skin. Also, in too many cases it is used in toilet soap to "cover up" the ingredients, where these are not as pure as they should be.

What to do then? Use the finest of all pure soaps, the finest of all Castles—Doña Castile! Unscented (like all true Castles), infinitely mild and bland, Doña is 100% pure vegetable oil content. (The fragrance that women love in Doña is given it by its own pure ingredients and rinses off instantly with the lather.)

And Doña has other virtues that no other Castile has. It will give you an instant generous lather, even in cold water—a marvel for Castile. It rinses instantly too. It is beautifully molded to fit your hand, comes to you fresh in a charming wrapper, is "hard-milled"—that's to make it last. Doña is a very expensive soap to make, but because so many millions of women use it, it is not expensive to buy. It costs ten cents, wherever you buy your toilet soap.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Roast Chicken Dripping.

The ancient saw to the effect that there is no great loss without some small gain should sometimes be reversed for our comfort. And here is one place where—namely, in oven roasting. In spit roasting the dripping pan was at the side of the fire, or sometimes below it, with no heat under it, therefore the fat, that was constantly dripping from the meat and was as constantly dipped back over it, was not burned.

In really roasting meat in a baking pan, which had recently come to Chicago on a business visit from his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., was 70 years old. He was accompanied by his wife, who will return to Brooklyn today with the body. Dr. Woolson was chairman of the building code commission of the United States department of commerce.

Now, remember that no matter what meat you are going to cook in a broiling oven, heat it up slowly until it is extremely hot. After the meat starts to cook lessen the heat. But if you want fine effects, pour boiling fat—short of smoking point—over the meat. If it is a chicken you are cooking, perhaps you will like to use melted and heated butter. Three tablespoons will do for a chicken, and if the roasting is in a broiling oven, perhaps that will not burn, but if you think it risky add a few tablespoons of water to the pan. When it is cold, the water may be. The first basting when a cook is not sure of herself may be after fifteen minutes, and it may be with a half cup of boiling water—in which case add none to the pan. After that, all basting can be from the pan. Cook chicken to beaver brown, or what I like to remember as one of the compliments I have received from a family of readers—to "the Eddington bluish."
